GRIZZLY BEAR FROM ZOO CAUGHT AFTER CHASE IN WEST END

One of Two Animals at Liberty for Three Hours After Escape From Cage at About 5 A. M.

POLICEMEN WITH GUNS AID IN HUNT

One Patrolman Maneuvers to Get Bear in Front of Him When Warned of Approach at Back.

A grizzly bear, one of two which escaped from a cage in the Forest Park zoo about 5 a. m. today, eluded pursuers in the park for three hours and then, when found, was chased through about a mile of West End streets and trapped in a garage in the rear of Albert Bernet's home, 1025 North Goodfellow avenue, after being wounded in the shoulder.

A cage was taken to the garage on a truck and placed under a small window near the main entrance to the garage. A portion of the frame and stucco wall under the window was removed so that the bear would have access to the open door of the cage. Zoo attendants then reached through a window and prodded the bear with iron bars until it entered the cage. It was taken to the zoo hospital. It is not believed to have been seriously wounded.

The other bear was surrounded by zoo employes shortly after its escape and driven back into its cage. This was the male bear. Its mate fled from the keepers into the western portion of Forest Park and an exciting bear hunt was on.

After the escape it was found that lock bars on the grizzly bears' cage and on an adjoining cage, in which were two cinnamon bears, had been forced. An investigation is under way to determine if the locks were broken by the bears or by some outside agency. Martin Angermeyer, superintendent of the Zoo, said a cursory inspection of the locks seemed to show that the bolts had been pried open with a tool.

It was announced that $500 reward would be paid for the arrest and conviction of the person who had forced open the locks.

Police Aid in Chase.

A telephone message was sent to the Mounted District Station in Forest Park and policemen were assigned to aid in the bear hunt.

After leaving the cage on the north side of Washington drive, opposite the bird cage, the female bear started west in Wells drive toward Art Hill. There were reports that it passed through the Red Cross "vacation village" in the west end of the park, adjacent to Wells Drive.

When Angermeyer heard the bear was headed toward "Vacation Village," where there were 40 adults and 90 children, he stationed guards near the village and instructed policemen to shoot the bear if it appeared there and seemed to be dangerous. The bear did not pass through the vacation camping ground, but skirted it on the west and was seen by several of the campers.

It did not seem to occur to anyone that the simple expedient of "shooing" the bear might have caused it to turn back and that it was unnecessary to shoot it. Angermeyer said that just after the bear left the cage it could have been forced back but for the fact that it had jumped over an iron railing in front of the cages and it would have been difficult to force it to go back over this railing and into the cage.

About 8 a. m. a policeman saw the bear on Art Hill, near the Art Museum, and fired four shots at it with a revolver. By this time several telephone messages had been sent to the Mounted District Station from persons who had seen the bear and an additional detail of policemen, mounted and on foot and armed with riot guns, was sent out.

Fruit Stand Raided by Animal.

A third detail was sent out in a patrol wagon. This squad traced the bear to De Baliviere avenue and Delmar boulevard, six blocks north of Forest Park. Here they found an excited crowd and were told that the bear had raided a fruit stand in front of the Delmonico Market and was eating some of the fruit when Charles Herr, proprietor of the market, opened fire on it with a revolver.

Herr chased the bear north on Cabanne Way, a private walk running north from Delmar boulevard near De Baliviere avenue. Many others joined in the chase. At Cabanne avenue and Cabanne Way, four blocks north of Delmar boulevard, Patrolman Clark of the Page Boulevard Station was crossing the street when the bear slipped up behind him. It was almost within reaching distance when he was warned by pursuers of the bear. He maneuvered so as to get the bear in front of him and fired several shots at it.

The bear quickened its pace and

NEGRO SHOT IN CHASE AFTER STEALING RUGS

Police Summoned When Neighbor Sees Thief Hauling Loot From Lee Meriwether's Home.

A young negro entered the rear yard of Lee Meriwether's home, 5211 Washington avenue, shortly after noon today, and a few minutes later reappeared in the alley, carrying two rugs. A white man drove a one-horse junk wagon into the alley from the east and the negro threw the rugs on the wagon, then got on the seat with the driver, and the wagon proceeded west.

A neighbor, who knew that no one was at home at the Meriwether house, saw this series of occurrences from a rear window. The neighbor telephoned to the Page Boulevard Police Station, and a motor patrol was sent from the station.

The junk wagon was jogging along Union boulevard, near the alley, as the motor patrol arrived there. When the motor patrol was seen by the driver, he and the negro jumped from the junk wagon, leaving two white children, 13 and 6 years old, on the seat.

Detective Sergt. Roach pursued and caught the driver of the wagon. He said he was Harry Pallo, 34 years old, of 2922 Dickson street, and that the children were his. He said the negro had asked him to haul the rugs and that he did not know they had been stolen. He said he ran because the negro told him to.

The negro was pursued by Probationary Patrolman Edward Miller, who fired two shots over his head, then fired one shot at him. The negro fell, then arose and ran on, and the policeman lost the chase at Clarendon avenue and the Hodiamont line tracks.

Other policemen were sent to the neighborhood and after a search a negro was found hiding in the basement of a store at 820 Clarendon avenue. He had a bullet wound in the right leg. He was sent to City hospital No. 2 and said he was George Burton, 18, of 2925 Chouteau avenue.

It was found that the Meriwether residence had been entered after the rear basement door was broken open. The rugs and the junk wagon and horse were held by the police.

BOY CLAWED BY LIONESS

Crawled Under Tent at Carnival and Got Too Close to Cage.

By the Associated Press.

BEACH, N. D., Aug. 27.—Harold Eide, 11 years old, suffered serious injuries when clawed by a lioness at a carnival yesterday. More than 50 stitches were required to sew up wounds on his head, back and chest. Although his scalp was nearly torn from his head, he is expected to recover.

Harold crawled under the animal tent at noon while animal attendants were at lunch. He got too close to the lioness' cage and she reached out, and while holding him with one paw, clawed him with the other. Two shots were fired at the lioness before she released the lad.

INQUIRY HERE IN SALE OF STOCK IN OIL COMPANY

Investigation Follows Arrest in Chicago of Two Brokers Who Have Had Offices in St. Louis.

CHARGES BASED ON AN ADVERTISEMENT

Agency Said to Have Offered, Without Authority, Cash and Stock Dividends —Neither Paid.

Postoffice inspectors have begun an investigation of the sales of stock here and elsewhere of the Alto Gasoline and Oil Co. of Texas, following the arrest in Chicago yesterday of George M. Saunders, 24 years old, and Mark Freedman of the brokerage firm of Saunders company, who at various times within the last year had offices here in the Boatmen's Bank Building, the Victoria Building and at 882 Arcade Building. Federal warrants issued here charge Saunders and Freedman with having used the mail to further a scheme to defraud.

Freedman and Saunders told Postoffice Inspectors after their arrest by Inspector Monte Price of St. Louis, that they had purchased 60,000 shares of the Alto company's stock at $4.50 a share and had sold it here and in Chicago at prices ranging from $5 to $12 a share. The inspectors do not know how much money was invested in the stock, but say that the number of investors here was large.

The warrants against Freedman and Saunders charge that on March 22 the Saunders company inserted a newspaper advertisement offering for sale the stock of the Alto company.

In this advertisement it was stated, the Government charges, that the Alto company had decided to pay a cash dividend of 3 per cent and a stock dividend of 50 per cent to all persons holding stock April 1. The advertisement is said to have been signed by Saunders & Co. as fiscal agents for the Alto company, which has offices at Fort Worth, Tex.

Dividend Not Paid.

The Government charges that large numbers of persons bought the stock upon those terms, but that neither dividend ever was paid and that the directors of the Alto company had not authorized payment of such a dividend.

Officers of the Alto company had informed postoffice inspectors that no such offer as the Saunders company advertised had been authorized, but Freedman and Saunders showed the inspectors correspondence and made charge which have brought about the wider investigation of the stock selling arrangement.

Company's Office in Texas.

The Alto company was organized in Oklahoma and for some time had offices at Tulsa and Okmulgee, later removing its headquarters to Fort Worth, now its home office.

Freedman and Saunders were arraigned in Chicago yesterday and were released upon bonds of $1500 each.

Their cases will be tried here.

MACHINERY PUT ACROSS ROADWAY

Part of Loot Recovered in Car — Alarm Spread by Citizen Who Phones Ahead to Stop Fleeing Thieves.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

GOREVILLE, Ill., Aug. 27.—Robbers who blew the safe of the First National Bank here at 2 o'clock this morning and obtained $5000 and Liberty bonds were blocked in their flight by the placing of farm machinery across the road by a farmer and his sons, who opened fire on them. They scattered and three of them are said to have been surrounded in a corn field.

Interruption of the robbers' flight was due to the prompt action of Alois Enoch, proprietor of a garage, who spread the alarm, and Presley Kelley and his two sons, who blocked the road and fired on them.

Enoch sleeps in the rear of his garage, which is next door to the bank. He was awakened by the noise made by the robbers in breaking into the bank, but kept still until they had blown the safe and had driven away to the north. He then telephoned to farmers along the road they had taken and told them what had happened.

Robbers' Machine Stopped.

Kelley, with the help of his two young sons, dragged farm machinery into the road, blocking it so completely that when the robbers came along they had to get out of their machine to clear away the obstruction.

Kelley and his sons, lying in wait in the barn, opened fire with shotguns. The robbers abandoned their machine and scattered. In the automobile, which had been stolen from Ernest Calhoun of Goreville, was found between $200 and $300 in currency and silver and a bundle of Liberty bonds and other papers, besides drills and other tools.

Enoch and John Reid, a merchant, who was awakened by the explosion when the safe was blown, aroused the villagers and they went in pursuit of the robbers and were joined by farmers along the way. Sheriff Veach of Johnson County was summoned from Vienna and organized a posse and took charge of the chase.

Three Reported Surrounded.

Information received by telephone was that three of the men were surrounded in a corn field near Pulleys Mill, in Williamson County. The amount stolen was at first stated to be $2500, but after the recovery of the sum left in the machine, John B. Hudgens, cashier of the bank, estimated that the robbers still had about $5000 and some Liberty bonds.

COX SUBMITS HIS DATA; REPUBLICANS DENY STATEMENTS

GOVERNOR QUOTES FROM REPUBLICAN PARTY BULLETINS

Chief Exhibit One Indicating $8,145,000 Is to Be Collected in 51 Large Cities for Campaign.

FURTHER "EXPOSES" SOON PROMISED

Nominee Reiterates Charge Moneyed Interests Are Attempting to Buy Presidency for Harding.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Gov. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, indicated today that he would make further "exposes" of Republican campaign funds within a week.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Information to support his charges that a Republican campaign fund exceeding $15,000,000 was being raised "in a conspiracy to buy the presidency" was presented by Gov. Cox, Democratic presidential candidate, in addressing a public meeting here last night.

Gov. Cox's data consisted almost entirely of matter taken from the "official bulletin" of Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, but his chief exhibit was a typewritten list purporting to show Republican campaign quotas imposed on 51 principal cities in 27 states and aggregating $8,145,000.

Names of local subscribers, Gov. Cox said, were ordered kept secret. These quotas, given as $2,000,000 for New York City, $750,000 for Chicago, $500,000 for Philadelphia and ranging down to $25,000 for smaller cities like Albany, N. Y., were said by Gov. Cox to have been announced about the middle of July.

"Harding Knows Details."

That Senator Harding, his Republican opponent, "was acquainted with the details" of the quota plan and that it was also approved by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, was charged by the Democratic candidate.

From subsequent issues of the "official bulletin," Gov. Cox quoted many reports from Republican workers throughout the country, reporting going "over the top" and in excess of the alleged quotas.

Announcement of the $8,145,000 metropolitan quotas, Gov. Cox said, was made by Harry M. Blair, assistant to Treasurer Upham. A meeting was held in Chicago, Gov. Cox said, at which Hays "spoke his blessings."

The Governor charged that typewritten sheets bearing the 51 cities' quotas were "distributed to those assembled," and he produced one of the alleged quota lists, but did not state how nor where it was acquired. The quota plan, he said, was carried out like that of the Liberty loan campaigns.

That the reputed attempt to raise $8,145,000 from 51 cities in 27 of the 48 states is fair evidence that the total national fund will be much larger was declared by Gov. Cox, who said big business men were prominent on the Republican Ways and Means Committee and that the raising of funds was on a business "salesmanship" basis.

Quotes From Bulletin.

Gov. Cox also quoted from statements in the Republican "Bulletin" that state and county organizations were not to be "disturbed or retarded in their activities."

Calling attention to Chairman Hays' statement that $3,000,000 was being raised, Gov. Cox said yesterday's papers carried a statement from Treasurer Upham that the Republican total would be about $7,500,000.

"From the evidence which we shall submit," he added, "I think you will agree we are justified in multiplying Mr. Upham's figures by two."

Gov. Cox, standing stanchly by his charges that an attempt to purchase the presidency was being made, declared that "the senatorial oligarchy and their friends are harking back to the days of Mark Hanna," stating that in the 1896 campaign, which Hanna managed, $16,500,000 was spent.

"It was this foul thing," said Gov. Cox, "which Theodore Roosevelt brought to an end when he reformed the Republican party. When he was

CROWD "RAISES ROOF" IN APPROVAL OF COX'S SPEECH

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1920.)

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Political meetings may come and go, but there have been few like that which Gov. Cox addressed here last night.

Thousands of people listened eagerly to the charges made by the Democratic nominee of a huge fund "to purchase the presidency," and literally went into a frenzy of enthusiasm as the Governor produced documents from Republican headquarters tending to show that at least $8,000,000 is being raised in 51 cities or 27 States from communities totaling 25,000,000 population and that efforts are being continued to raise funds in cities other than those mentioned in the $8,000,000 quota.

Sensation after sensation was produced by Gov. Cox, and the crowd gave him a demonstration of approval that was more like the demonstrations Theodore Roosevelt used to get, more like the enthusiasm Hiram Johnson commanded and more like the spirit of joy that one witnesses in an athletic contest as the bleachers rise to cheer a piece of good play. This is a Republican stronghold, but it made no difference; the crowd just "raised the roof."

Aroused Real Enthusiasm.

There's no doubt about it—the American people love a contest; they like to hear candidates swat each other with hot shots and sarcastic thrusts. Gov. Cox got more real enthusiasm out of the crowd at Pittsburg than Woodrow Wilson got here in all his speeches put together.

Perhaps it was the extraordinary character of the occasion—it had been well advertised in advance because of the Governor's announcement that he would present proofs of his sensational charges. The big auditorium was packed to the doors. A large overflow crowd was addressed out-of-doors.

The people appeared convinced that Gov. Cox had proved his case. One skeptic answered a rhetorical question by saying he didn't believe the Governor had named a single corporation or individual that had paid a cent and Gov. Cox, who appears to enjoy heckling, said the Senate investigating committee, dominated by Republicans, had the power to call in Chairman Hays and Treasurer Upham and either disprove the charges or get the name of the persons who had contributed the quotas.

Flaunted Official Bulletin.

The Governor read his manuscript carefully and frequently flaunted aloft, so that everybody could see them, printed copies of the official bulletin, which was published privately and for confidential use by the Republican National finance organization. Gov. Cox evoked much amusement as he read some of the slogans from the official bulletin and as he poked fun at Senator Harding for saying he didn't know of these things, when the bulletin contains a letter of indorsement from the Republican candidate himself.

Of course, crowds do not analyze speeches carefully. They go by impression and the intonation of voice and emphasis of speakers. Editorial writers probably will scrutinize the evidence and the Senatorial Investigating Committee will also examine it carefully and the Republicans named in the documents still have an opportunity to explain their side of the case.

But this much Gov. Cox did do—he created a suspicion in the minds of his audience that, if $8,000,000 was being raised in 27 states from 25,000,000 people, the final totals could easily more than double, or, as he phrased it, "not less than $15,000,000."

He also spoke often of quotas be-

TREASURER OF G. O. P. SAYS COX'S LIST IS "PHONY"

Upham Declares No Allotment of Quotas to Cities Has Been Made and Asserts States Only Are Being Called Upon for Contributions.

COLLECTIONS SO FAR STATED AS $1,017,255

Committee Official Declares That Someone Must Have "Played a Joke" on Democratic Presidential Nominee.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Gov. James M. Cox's schedule of Republican campaign fund quotas in 51 principal cities is a "phony list which I never headr of before," Fred W. Upham, Republican National Treasurer, declared today on his return from New York.

"Somebody must have played a joke on the Governor," Upham declared.

The Republican National Committee has never apportioned any quotas to cities, Upham said. The only quotas assigned, he added, were given to states, the money to be used for both state and national campaign purposes. Each state committee then apportioned its quotas it thought best, Upham said.

Denying charges that vast amounts had been "collected or were being collected," the Republican Treasurer exhibited a statement showing collections up to this morning total $1,017,255, of which New York State, including the city of New York, gave $225,292.50, he said.

Reiterates Hays' Statement.

He reiterated the statement of Chairman Will H. Hays that the budget planned for the national campaign totaled slightly in excess of $3,000,000, and denied Gov. Cox's charge that he was planning to raise in excess of $15,000,000.

Gov. Cox's statement of alleged quotas in some cases assigned the entire quota for State and national purposes to a single city, and in other cases the amount credited to one city exceeded the entire State quota, the treasurer said. He cited the Governor's figures for New York City, $2,000,000, and said this was the quota for the entire State of New York for both State and national campaign purposes. The amount credited Chicago in the Governor's table, $750,000, is $50,000 more than the entire quota of the State of Illinois, he said.

"Gov. Cox does not appreciate the difference between a quota and a budget," said Upham. "The quota is assessed on the basis of what we estimate would be a fair share for each state, and is placed high enough to allow for a large shrinkage in the amount actually obtained.

Plan of Finance Campaign.

"The plan of the financial campaign was laid on lines designed to get away from large collections from the principal centers of the country. In every previous campaign of both parties not less than 75 per cent of all funds raised came from New York.

"The plan this year also takes into consideration the fact that business men dislike to be bothered by several solicitors. We combined the needs for both national and state campaigns, and solicited the entire amount at one time.

"In many states, New Mexico, Arizona, Tennessee, Kentucky and North Carolina, for example, the entire quota is to be spent for state purposes, and nothing for the national campaign."

"After the nomination of our candidate the financial committee prepared a careful budget of expenditures for the national campaign. This budget, as already stated by Chairman Hays, amounts to a little more than $3,000,000. There is no

PARIS, Aug. 27.—The Foreign Ministry announced today that France had counseled Poland to attain the best strategical military position possible until peace is signed, regardless of her ethnographical frontier, because the military situation will influence the peace terms.

France has advised Poland, however, to withdraw her armies within the Polish frontier upon the signing of peace, the Foreign Office added.

Eighty thousand Russian Soviet soldiers have been captured in Poland, 40,000 killed and 30,000 interned in East Prussia, according to the latest report received from the French mission in Poland.

Line the French Consider Safe for Poles to Hold.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—At Marshal Foch's headquarters today staff officers agreed that the "campaign of Poland" is virtually ended, as far as heavy fighting and maneuvering is concerned. Their opinion was that, except for an expected stand by the Bolsheviki before Grodno, no further pitched battles are likely. The officers' main topic was: "Where will the Polish armies halt and entrench?"

"Ethnographical frontiers are not necessarily the best strategic frontiers," one officer said. The opinion was expressed that it would be folly for the Poles to place themselves in strategical inferiority by halting within a kilometer of the frontier fixed by the Versailles treaty, especially in the center.

It was explained that the Polish left wing, resting on the Niemen River, and the right, holding behind the River Zbruch, were safe. The center, however, was the weak spot, the officers declared, having no natural defense and being always exposed to a possible offensive return, which might cut the line in half, leaving both wings in the air. From a military and strategical point of view, it would be imperative, they said, that the Polish center be advanced 40 or 50 kilometers beyond the line fixed by the treaty, to the western edge of the Pripet Marshes.

CROWD "RAISES ROOF" IN APPROVAL OF COX'S SPEECH

ing oversubscribed in cities not mentioned in the list covering the first $8,000,000, as to create the impression that a second list of quotas was made up for additional sums. If Gov. Cox has that second list, he gave no hint of it in his speech here. Circumstantially he built up the second part of his phrase on inference and deduction and asks that the burden of disproving the existence of a larger fund than at least $8,000,000 be placed upon his opponents.

Talk of Other Documents.

There is talk that Gov. Cox has other documents and that he wants to draw the fire of his opponents by publishing it in separate speeches, but newspaper men here have the impression that, if the Governor had any more substantial proof than he presented to show the plans for the remaining $37,000,000, he would have produced it in Pittsburg. It is admitted that he established his case for the first $8,000,000, but that the remainder rests upon inferences drawn from various references in the official bulletin to cities and states not mentioned in the original list of quotas.

This much can be said—the audience in Pittsburg recognized the discrepancy between the statement attributed to Will Hays that he had estimated the Republican campaign fund at $3,000,000 and the admission of Treasurer Upham that at least $7,000,000 would cover the expense for National and state and local election purposes.

Unquestionably the quotas given by Gov. Cox will be admitted as having been an estimate for state and county work as well as the presidential ticket in various cities, but before the Senatorial Investigating Committee next week the Republicans will have their opportunity to show how they intended to differentiate between the Federal and state expenditures.

HELD UP NEAR CLUB GROUNDS

McKinley Felix, a negro, and Guy Evans, both employed at the Bellerive Country Club at Normandy, St. Louis County, were held up at 9:30 o'clock last night by three youthful highwaymen, near the Natural Bridge entrance to the club grounds. Felix was robbed of a diamond pin and $5 and Evans lost $7.

D. Grace and F. Barlow, who reside near the club, and who witnessed the robbery, informed a Deputy Sheriff that they were held up at the same place by the same highwaymen Sunday night. Barlow said the robbers took his shoes from his feet. Grace reported that he was robbed of $4.

doing it, Warren G. Harding branded him as an Aaron Burr."

"I charge again an assault on the electorate," said Gov. Cox.

"It can't be hidden; the hosts are marshaled; the money ammunition is prepared, but it will not succeed. The net is spread in sight of the quarry. What is the game except to becloud the public mind on the subject of the League of Nations issue and world peace?"

On the question of keeping secret all local subscriptions, Gov. Cox quoted from the official bulletin of Aug. 16 as follows:

"The names of amounts subscribed by local donors should not be made public locally."

Publication to Be Secret.

"I hereby give it wide and non-exclusive publicity," he continued, "but why was the publication to be only the organ of the secret society? Why were the names of local contributors not to be made known? Was it because each contribution would carry its own meaning to the voters in the local communities, or, if secrecy were guaranteed in the communities, were Mr. Hays and Mr. Upham to do the same thing in submitting their returns on box office receipts? I certainly think there is some reason. What is it? The publ- some reason. What is it? The pub- and Mr. Upham do not come forward with the information, the Republican National Committee ought to remove them both and insist upon a clean bill of health.

"Furthermore, there should be some explanation of this being made purely a business affair, participated in by business men, and business men only. Unexplained, it carries its own condemnation and exposes the purpose of the whole shameful business. It means that the quota is to be assessed against those who are to benefit and that the captains of industry who have answered Mr. Hays' roll call are submitting to taxation with the understanding that they will have representation."

The quota plan, Gov. Cox charged, was approved by Chairman Hays and Treasurer Upham and also, he added, it received indorsement from a higher source.

Quoting from a "message" written by Senator Harding in the "official bulletin" of Aug. 5, Gov. Cox said Senator Harding expressed his gratitude for "the enthusiasm shown" in raising the campaign fund.

"That Mr. Harding is acquainted even with the details is evidenced by a subsequent passage," said Gov. Cox, "which is as follows:

"'Through the fine work of your organization we are nearing that form of political patriotism which expresses itself in support from every county, every state. Therefore, I want all members of your organization to feel that their efforts are essential to our success in planning for national enlightenment and deeply appreciated by me.'"

Documents Depended Upon.

Gov. Cox said he depended "wholly for the purpose of making proof of his charges" on official documents which came from Republican headquarters.

Contrary to an intention announced previously, Gov. Cox added that he "intended to pass this evidence" to the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee.

Gov. Cox reminded his audience in order, he said, to reach an understanding, a recent contribution of large sums by business interests began in the case of Senator Newberry of Michigan. His present charges, he declared, of a fund "so stupendous as to exceed the realm of legitimate expense, mean but one thing—imminent danger of an odious and corrupt campaign."

Cites Newberry Case.

Senator Newberry, he continued, was convicted in a Republican state and a Republican community, before a Republican Judge, grand and petit juries. The Newberry charges, Gov. Cox noted, also were denied.

"One would have thought," said the speaker, "that this experience would have had its restraining influence on subsequent events, but the resolve of certain interests to take over the affairs of our Government amounts apparently to a mania. Unaffected by the Newberry episode, money was spent after it had been collected from business interests in the pre-convention campaign in such sums that the whole country was shocked by the scandal. Millions of dollars admittedly were expended in behalf of its candidates.

"The Newberry affair and the preliminaries to the Republican national convention are now admitted public facts. They are recounted as first symptoms of an iniquitous contagion that continues. Judging the future by the past, the people must bring it to an end. Nothing, apparently, except the stiff shock of expressed public condemnation at the polls will be effective. The Newberry lesson went unheeded by the interests behind presidential candidates in the spring and early summer of 1920, and the admonition which the multiplied circumstances of the very recent past would ordinarily carry to the normal mind is insufficient to stay the hand of greed, of conspiracy and corruption, which it is now my duty to expose."

Governor Cox recited how the Republican Ways and Means Committee was organized last December and its work, he said, was "vigorously pushed;" its local chairmen, he said, were "business men, in most instances very wealthy men."

In this connection, he quoted from a letter of John Kirby Jr., of Ohio, of February 7, stating: "This is a purely business men's movement."

Modeled After Bond Campaign.

"The philosophy running through all the literature is emphasized by the recurrent terms of salesmanship. The plan was not only to organize every state, but every county. Definite quotas were established in precisely the same manner as the Liberty bond campaigns were conducted; population and bank deposits apparently being the base of calculations. In addition to the local chairman, state managers were engaged, traveling representatives operated between them and the community organizations; salaries running as high as $500 a week and expenses have been paid to create and maintain enthusiasm and morale. An official document was published, intended, as it will later be shown, for the eyes exclusively of the men and corporations who are a part of the movement."

Gov. Cox quoted at length from many issues of the "Upham Bulletin." The first issue of July 17, he said, contained this sentence:

"Nobody is going to have anything to do with this bulletin who has not had actual experience in digging up money in the field."

"A statement by Upham said Senator Harding's election was the 'job' and involved "the simplest principles of salesmanship, knowledge in our goods, faith in our goods, tact and energy in presenting our goods," Gov. Cox declared.

Describing the fund managers as "money diggers," Gov. Cox said Mr. Upham's assistants were Harry M. Blair, Edwin L. Quarrles, assistant to Blair; C. W. Lee, Eastern division director; Henry E. Owen, central division director; Charles A. McKeand, Western director, and E. G. Fitzgerald, office manager.

Reads From Bulletin.

Gov. Cox read a bulletin statement by Blair that the efforts for funds for 41 states would be directed from main headquarters.

"For the present," said Blair's statements, "our efforts will be directed primarily to producing the quotas of the larger cities. This does not mean that present state and county organizations will be disturbed or retarded in their activities." "The quotas which Mr. Blair had in mind were very soon announced," said Gov. Cox. "The meeting was held in Chicago. Mr. Hays addressed it and spoke his blessings. Typewritten sheets were distributed to those assembled.

"I produce herewith one of those sheets, which carries quotas as indicated."

At this point Gov. Cox presented the list of 51 large cities, and, he said, the allotment would be 31 cents per capita for each man, woman and child of their 25,500,000 population.

"The sum of $8,145,000 is to come, not from 27 states, but from the largest cities in 27 states," he said. "New York State is represented by ohly six places, New York City, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany, Syracuse and Schenectady, and yet Franklin D. Roosevelt announces that the County of Dutchess, a suburban and rural community, was assessed $32,000. But let us see whether the quotas placed on the larger cities were exceeded. Again, we come for proof to the official bulletin, which, under date of Aug. 10, says:

"'Boston, Mass., had a 90 per cent attendance at an organization meeting, Aug. 4. This is an excellent record for a hot day. Real interest aroused. Senator Weeks inspired them with an understanding of the situation and they agreed to produce.'

Boston Exceeds Quota.

"That they did produce is proved by the bulletin of Aug. 10, when telegrams received that day were published. Among others, we see the following: Metropolitan Boston wills to contribute more than 250 per cent of its original quota, which would turn the Boston fund from $300,000 to $750,000.

"The Columbus (O.) quota is $100,000, and yet, in the bulletin of Aug. 10, a telegram from Columbus is inserted carrying these reassuring words:

"'Then, too, the end is not yet, for it is probable $150,000 for the State and national treasury will stand to the credit of Columbus before the 1st day of September. Then a little color was given to the story. Proud of achievements, Henry E. Owen, the divisional director, who sent the telegram, evidenced his pride in how things were going by submitting details as to just how it was accomplished. Mr. Owen said: 'This is how it was done: Two busy men gave two hours a day for 10 consecutve days, in interviewing and soliciting and they turned the trick.'"

"That this was intended as a hint to the 'money diggers' is shown by the concluding paragraph in Mr. Owen's telegram, which says: 'Every state director, every city director, can do like Kelly did; get the right man to see the right people. Do it quickly and systematically.'

"That the $8,000,000 fund is not to be the final total in the country at large has already been clearly proved by the statement of Mr. Blair himself. Further information is supplied by official Republican documents. For instance, the Bulletin, under date of August 5, announced: 'The following cities in Tennessee are all organized for the production of their quotas: Chattanooga, Nashville, Memphis and Knoxville.' Only one of these cities is in the $8,000,000 list—Memphis is assigned $25,000. The Bulletin of August 16 announces 'Chattanooga over-subscribed its quota this week. The balance of the Tennessee cities are being carefully canvassed.'

"Not a city in Arkansas is listed in the $8,000,000 class. Only one city in Louisiana—New Orleans. Only one city in Georgia—Atlanta. Not a single city in North Carolina, and yet Harry Blafr wired the Bulletin as follows: 'Why not urge the rest of the United States to emulate the example of Arkansas, Louisiana, Georgia and North Carolina, which are all over the top? North Carolina went over on the 27th of July and the end is not yet.'

Campaign Throughout Michigan.

"In Michigan, only one city, Detroit is put in the eight million dollar class, and yet the Bulletin under date of August 10 says that: 'Flint, Mich., business men decided to make their campaign short and snappy and finish by August 15.' Grand Rapids, Mich., committee of large business men working enthusiastically to bring campaign to speedy conclusion' The Bulletin of August 16 says: 'Campaign in Pontiac, Saginaw, Alma, Bay City, Ann Arbor, Jackson, Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, and Grand Haven started during past week. Forty counties in Michigan now campaigning.'

"In Wisconsin only Milwaukee is named and yet the Bulletin of August 10 says: 'Kenosha, Wis., has raised its full quota. Other Wisconsin counties organizing now. The Bulletin of Aug. 16 says: 'Wisconsin has every day since adjournment of convention recorded itself on the cash register at headquarters with substantial sums. Milwaukee organization moving forward with big men behind it.'

"Let us go to Arizona which is not mentioned at all, but the Bulletin of August 10 shows what is going on by this dispatch: 'Arizona—When the thermometer registered 110 in the shade every day few men usually respond to campaign work, but the soliciting committee is working daily. In Phoenix, Tucson, Douglas and Yuma, considering conditions, they are showing remarkable results in securing subscriptions. Many large contributors absent on vacation. Phoenix raised one-third of its quota in a week. Tucson expects to report oversubscription Tuesday night. The Nogales committee starts Monday night.' This dispatch is signed by Albert Meigel of Yuma, Ariz., and dated August 7.

Activities in Florida.

"The 'money diggers' struck pay dirt in Florida. C. C. Buhen of Eau Gallie, under date of Aug. 7, wired the Bulletin as follows: 'Many counties of Florida organizing. Dade and Palm Beach counties strongly lined up. Key West shows much interest, also Fort Pierce.'

"Speaking of Florida, the Bulletin carries this paragraph under date of Aug. 10: 'Florida Republicans say they wish to help pay the freight for return of good Republican days.'

"Maine is not found in the king row and yet, under date of Aug. 16, the Bulletin places her in the list with these words: 'With this contribution Maine made a record of which she can be truly proud. In the past practically no subscriptions to the National Committee fund were ever received from this State. Starting July 18, the first organization of the State Ways and Means Committee was perfected and on Aug. 15 the quota had been oversubscribed $5000.'

"Coming to Ohio, we find, according to the Bulletin of Aug. 16, that 'Cincinnati business men have underwritten quota to be delivered by Sept. 1.' By that we are to understand that a group of business men produced the money and will do their collecting later. The point is, however, that the cash has gone to the treasury. Portsmouth is not in the Ohio list, yet the Bulletin of Aug. 16 says: 'Portsmouth raised its quota at one meeting.'

"Only one city in Colorado—Denver—is mentioned, yet the bulletin of Aug. 16 says: 'Colorado—S. C. Hamlin, State chairman, reports northern counties in Colorado have practically raised their quotas. He guarantees State's quota by Sept. 1.'

South Dakota Not in Big List.

"Even South Dakota reports to the bulletin of date August 10 that Sioux Falls had an enthusiastic meeting August 4 and promises its quota by August 15.' It is not in the $8,000,000 list. The bulletin of August 16 says 'Mitchell, South Dakota, has completed quota.'

"That remote places in Illinois are in the pay territory is evidenced by a line in the bulletin of August 16 which runs into these words: 'Illinois —Will and Boone counties have practically completed quotas.'

"I am sure the country will be interested," the Governor continued, "in some of the methods adopted that kept things going. In the bulletin of August 16, Harry M. Blair, Mr. Upham's first assistant, under his own signature, contributed an article entitled 'Step on It.' These are his slogans: 'Harding and Coolidge have the confidence of the people, but, boys, get the money. The platform is sound enough to hold the weight of the nation, but, boys, get the money. It takes time to organize, but we haven't any more time left. Boys, get the money. The weather is hot; the men are on vacations; meetings are hard to get; but, boys, get the money. There are hills to climb, but if you want to make a hill at the same speed you have been running where the road was level, you have got to give it more power. Give her the gas; step on it.'

Chicago Plan Revealed.

"The plan was to keep the spirit moving from one end of the line to the other," the Governor added. "This is revealed in a paragraph which deals with the Chicago campaign, which says 'Chicago's campaign is to be conducted by four full time divisions, and a fifth reserve division which will swing into action for the last three days on the public movement, functioning as a mop-up battalion.' Evidently the 'mop-up' battalion saved the day, as Mr. Upham admits $700,000 has already been received in Chicago."

Governor Cox closed his statement on contributions thus: "When my charge of a corruption fund was first made, Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee, made a distinct threat in these words:

"'If, at the instance of our adversaries, this campaign is finally resolved into a question of personal characters, we know of no reason aside from natural distaste why we should not meet that issue as rapidly as any other.'

"I renew the charge and accept the challenges."

Cox Gets Noisy Reception.

A capacity audience at Syria-Mosque cheered and cheered Gov. Cox's address. The applause was heightened by tin horns, hung at each seat, which screeched their approval of the Governor's statement.

As he read the list of cities' reported quotas, Gov. Cox, coming to the $60,000 set opposite to Dayton, O., his home, interjected:

"It will take sixty times sixty thousand dollars to carry Dayton."

The Governor also predicted that he would carry Ohio.

Gov. Cox mixed into his prepared address humorous remarks and sarcastic references to the reports of Republican subscriptions.

Among the Governor's auditors were Wilbur W. Marsh of Iowa, Democratic national treasurer; Ed H. Moore of Youngstown, O., the Governor's preconvention manager, and many other party notables.

Commenting on the reported "underwriting" of contribution quotas, Gov. Cox suggested that a small group of men would guarantee payment in the event of deficits in popular subscriptions.

"They'll need the money," he interjected.

Besides declaring, as he concluded his statement on Republican contributions, that he renewed his charges and accepted Mr. Hays' challenge, Gov. Cox said:

"I prove the charges."

When the Governor asked if anyone in the audience was not convinced, a man in the gallery stood up and shouted back:

"Yes."

Cox Quiets the Crowd.

Cries of "throw him out" were stilled by Gov. Cox, who asked the man to stand up and insisted he be given a hearing.

"Why are you not convinced?" asked the Governor.

"Because you have not named a single individual or a corporation that has contributed one penny," the man replied.

Amid considerable confusion in the hall Gov. Cox replied that the Republican leaders could produce the names of contributors.

"And if not I will continue to ask questions until Nov. 2," the Governor added.

"The facts will come out."

A rising ovation was given the Governor as he ended discussion of Republican finances and turned to industrial questions. When he told how he had avoided the use of the bayonet in Ohio strikes he was greeted by another salvo of cheers.

The Governor reiterated his statement that banking interests were planning to change the Federal Reserve act and declared many Ohio banks had been "assessed" $1000 each for the Republican fund, according to committee reports.

Crowds rushed the stage to shake hands with the Governor after his address.

Gov. Cox left here at 11:10 p. m., for New Haven, Conn., where he will make an afternoon address today, and another speech at night. En route to New Haven the Governor will spend one hour today at New York.

Harding's Letter to Treasurer of National Committee

PITTSBURG, Aug. 27.

EVIDENCE of indorsement of the work of the Republican "money diggers" by Senator Harding was given by Gov. Cox when he read from Treasurer Upham's official bulletin a letter headed, "Senator Harding's Message." It was addressed to Upham and said:

"Allow me to express through the official bulletin of the treasurer's office my gratitude for enthusiasm by all associated with your office in raising our national campaign fund for 1920.

"Through the fine work of your organization we are nearing that form of national patriotism which expresses itself in support from every county, every State. Therefore, I want all members of your organization to feel that their efforts are essential to our success in planning for national enlightenment, and are all deeply appreciated by me."

5 CARS OF TRAIN FROM DETROIT ARE DERAILED

Express Messenger, Bruised, Only Person Hurt in Accident North of Edwardsville.

Five coaches and the locomotive of Wabash passenger train No. 3, from Detroit and Toledo, due at Union Station at 7:58 a. m., were derailed four miles north of Edwardsville, at 7:10 this morning.

F. M. Paul of Huntington, Ind., an express messenger, was the only person injured. He was cut and bruised and was taken to a hotel in Edwardsville for treatment.

The cause of the derailment is not known. Two mail cars, one express car, one combination baggage car and coach and one sleeping car left the rails. Three sleepers and a dining car stayed on the track.

A few men, who were in a hurry to reach St. Louis, walked to Edwardsville and took interurban cars. The rest of the passengers waited at the scene of the accident for a relief train from St. Louis.

RUSSIA EXPRESSES DESIRE FOR PEACE WITH BRITAIN

Note Withdrawing Demand Poland Arm Workers Says Terms Are Not Proposed as Ultimatum.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The note of M. Tchitcherin, Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, to Mr. Balfour, Lord President of the Council, comments on the unusual tone of the Anglo-Italian Governments' Lucerne communication, which, it says, does not tend to help permanent good relations and world peace. It calls attention to statements of those Governments, which had accused the Russian Government of interfering in the internal affairs of other states and charges that "they have issued peace propaganda directed against our institutions, which constitutes an act of interference in Russian affairs sufficient to justify corresponding action by us."

He says, however, that, despite natural resentment, the Soviet Government has decided not to insist on this point, but to meet fully the wishes of the Anglo-Italian Governments, in the interest of the establishment of permanent good will.

Expressing surprise that the question of the interpretation of principle should have caused such difficulty, M. Tchitcherin argues that, after the limitation of Poland's army to 50,000 was recognized by the British Government as a just peace term, it was a concession by Russia to admit the formation of civil militia, which, he asserts, is, in fact, a supplementary armed force, and adds:

"We find it astonishing this should arouse the British Government's indignation."

Alluding to the proposed civil militia, he says:

Civil Militia Question.

"Although our interpretation of this point in our peace terms is thoroughly justified, we, nevertheless, are willing to remove this, the only point of divergency, in order to establish a full understanding between us and the above Governments.

"As to the terms of peace with Poland, we first of all declare we never considered our terms as an ultimatum, and are still, as we have been all the time, willing to discuss them with the Polish Government, with whom alone we are treating for peace. Any undertakings we may give hereafter will, therefore, be given to Poland alone.

"In view, nevertheless, of our earnest desire to obtain important results for the world's welfare and a peace arising from peace with Great Britain, we are willing to inform the British Government that the Russian Government is resolved to make a concession on this point. It will not insist upon the clause referring to the arming in Poland of a workers' civic militia, thus securing full agreement with Great Britain as to all the terms of peace with Poland."

Discussion of Oligarchy.

He continues: "It is not the custom of the Russian Government to mix practical business transactions with theoretical politics and discussions of principles. The British Government, however, has launched against the Soviet regime the strange accusation of being an oligarchy."

The note enters into a disquisition to the effect that all states whose form of government differs from the Soviet are obviously true oligarchies because they are states in which the immense majority toil for a privileged few, while in Soviet Russia, he says, the whole nation works for the whole nation's benefit.

There are two main currents of opinion in Poland—one for a fight to a finish against Bolshevism; the other for immediate peace and reconstruction at home, telegraphs the Warsaw correspondent of the London Times. The popular impression in Warsaw, says the dispatch, is that the former policy is backed by France, the latter by England.

SECRECY MAINTAINED AS TO REPUBLICAN FUND IN MISSOURI

Treasurer Dickey Silent Though Quota of State Understood to Be $500,000.

Secrecy maintained by Walter S. Dickey, treasurer of the Republican State Committee, regarding the Republican campaign fund which he was authorized to raise in Missouri as the representative of the National Committee, has prevented verification of reports of the amount obtained by him, though it has been frequently discussed about Republican headquarters that $500,000 was the Missouri quota.

Records in the office of Fred W. Upham of Chicago, treasurer of the National Committee, produced at the time of the national convention for inspection of a staff correspondent of the Post-Dispatch, showed that Missouri was expected to send $180,000 to the national organization.

It was explained at the time, however, that this did not represent the full amount to be raised in Missouri, and that Dickey was expected to add to this the amount he estimated would be needed for expenditure in Missouri, that money going to the State Committee, and in turn each county committee would add to the quota assigned to it by Dickey the amount it would need for its own county campaign fund.

In such divisions of campaign funds it has been customary to apportion one-third to the National Committee, one-third to the State Committee and one-third to the County Committe. On that basis, and taking $180,000 as the amount to go to the National Committee, the total Missouri collections would be $540,000.

Collections Slow in City.

Of the $500,000 Dickey expected to obtain in Missouri, it was understood that $250,000 was to be contributed by St. Louis Republicans. A. L. Shapleigh, to whom was delegated the collection of the money in St. Louis, denied to a Post-Dispatch reporter in May that the St. Louis quota was $250,000. He said no definite goal was fixed.

Collections for the fund in Missouri have been slow, some politicians fixing the total amount so far obtained at $100,000. Supporters of Lieut. Col. Dwight F. Davis, candidate for the Republican nomination for Senator, including many of the wealthy St. Louis Republicans, refused to contribute, it became known in the primary campaign, because of the failure of Chairman Hays of the National Committee to assure them that the committee was not aiding Senator Spencer in his campaign for renomination. The statement from Hays was requested after Davis' friends had been informed that Hays had promised Spencer the support of the National Committee in return for Spencer's support of the Lodge reservations to the League of Nations.

Dickey has refused to disclose for publication details of the fund and has refused to give names of contributors.

ATTORNEY DECLINES NOMINATION

Percy Werner, attorney, yesterday sent to E. H. Wessler, secretary of the Farmer-Labor party here, his written refusal to accept a place on the ticket of that party as candidate for Circuit Judge.

Werner, who said he had been nominated last Sunday without his consent, thanked the members of the party for their courtesy, but declined to run, on the ground that he is not a member of the party.

REPUBLICAN NATIONAL TREASURER DENIES GOV. COX'S STATEMENTS

mystery about the operations of the financial department. On Monday in my testimony I shall submit to the Senate committee the plan of campaign, the quota assessed each State, the amount collected from each State for both State and national purposes, and the full list of subscribers, which in no case will show subscriptions of more than $1000 by any individual."

Chairman Hays Says Governor Cox "Dreams in Millions."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, replying to the speech of Gov. Cox in Pittsburg last night, in which the Democratic presidential nominee sought to prove that Republicans were conspiring to buy the presidency, declared that Cox had such "intimate knowledge of the wasting of millions in aircraft production" during the war, that he "dreamed in millions."

After studying Cox's speech Hays issued the following statement at Republican headquarters:

"Of course, candidate Cox fails to prove, as he has failed to prove and will fail to prove, his charges. This is simply because the charges are false.

"He says millions have been put into the Republican National Committee by sinister influences to corrupt the electorate. He first is reported to have said a hundred million. Then Secretary Roosevelt said thirty million. Then candidate Cox said fifteen million, while now candidate Cox says eight million.

"He attempts to prove this by quoting from the official bulletin of the Ways and Means Committee of the Republican National Committee, a pamphlet published every few days, and sent broadcast over the country to party members and to newspapers, all to instill interest among the workers, and from an alleged quota sheet which he claims indicates the amounts to be raised in certain cities, which he does not even charge was adopted or any operation had thereunder.

"Candidate Cox, himself a millionaire, has had such intimate knowledge of the wasting of millions in aircraft production in his State, and Secretary Roosevelt has had such an intimate knowledge of the burning of billions by the administration of which he has been an important factor that these men dream in millions.

"They will have an opportunity in Chicago to prove this insult to the thousands of good citizens all over the country which are counted in the Republican party.

"Incidentally they will have a chance next week to indicate the source of their own money, both of their National Committee and other agencies outside of their National Committee, raising money to try to aid in Candidate Cox's election."

$300,000 IN BILLS IN BANK TELLERS' CAGES

Jefferson - Gravois Institution Displays Cash to Reassure Depositors Threatening Run.

A display of $300,000 in bills in the tellers' cages of the Jefferson-Gravois Bank this morning, helped to reassure a large number of depositors, who had become alarmed because of the receivership suit filed yesterday afternoon against the Jefferson-Gravois Trust Co. The trust company has not been in business actively since Feb. 27, 1919, when it was absorbed by the bank. Officers of the bank declare that its assets are in no way involved in the suit.

Four tellers, two more than the usual number, paid the depositors who presented withdrawal slips. Anthony Coller, cashier, said at noon that about 300 withdrawals had been made, and that the total amount withdrawn was about $100,000. The daily closing hour is 3 p. m.

Other Banks Loan Money.

When it became evident, soon after opening time, that the day's withdrawals would be considerable, the bank officials telephoned to the Federal Reserve Bank, which loaned the bank $150,000 in currency, and to five banks, which loaned $30,000 each, making $300,000 in all. This money was placed at the tellers' disposal. The five banks which loaned $30,000 each were the Chippewa, Lafayette-South Side, Farmers' and Merchants', Tower Grove and Central National.

Coller said the deposits, at the close of business yesterday, were $2,010,000, from about 8000 depositors. The outstandings, loans and discounts, he said, were $1,217,000, of which $800,000 was in commercial paper, much of which could be quickly converted into cash. The bank has $549,000 of bonds, he said, including $200,000 Government bonds, and a cash reserve of $169,000.

Two Policemen on Duty.

Two policemen were on duty at the bank. It was noticed that a number of those making withdrawals were housewives with small savings acounts. The bank officials predicted that most of them would bring their money back within a few days.

George J. Breaker, a lawyer, is plaintiff in the receivership suit filed against the Jefferson-Gravois Trust Co., which company, as has been stated, is no longer in existence. The suit will be heard Monday by Judge Davis. Breaker sued as the holder of 174 shares of the trust company's stock, and named as defendants, with the trust company, its former president, Michael C. H. Arendes, now president of the bank; Anthony Coller, John Strobel, Louis Christopherson and W. A. Busch, former officers of the trust company. He alleged that the bank had sold assets of the trust company at less than their face value, and that it is now seeking to charge a sum in excess of $20,000, as a lien on the trust company's assets.

Bank Officers' Statement.

George A. Held, vice president of the bank, gave to the newspapers the following statment:

"The suit instituted yesterday by Mr. Breaker in no wise affects the assets of the Jefferson-Gravois Bank. This bank was organized about a year and a half ago and was organized with entirely new capital and was in no wise connected with the Jefferson-Gravois Trust Co., excepting that it assumed the trust company's deposits and took over its assets to secure it in doing so. The obligations of the trust company in that connection have been entirely satisfied, and at this time there is no connection whatever between this bank and the trust company. Apparently the only reason that the bank was connected in the suit was that Mr. Breaker claims that the bank, in realizing upon the securities which it held, failed to realize as much as he thought it should have realized.

Bank Recently Inspected.

"There is no receivership asked for the bank, nor is the bank otherwise interested in the suit, excepting as above stated.

"The affairs of the bank are in excellent condition and have recently been inspected by the Federal Reserve and State Bank Examiners and complimented upon its fine condition.

"This suit arises over differences between stockholders of the old institution, and does not in any way affect the affairs or finances of the Jefferson-Gravois Bank."

Passenger Fare Increase Refused.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 27.—Holding that it did not have jurisdiction because of a State statute fixing passenger fares at 3 cents per mile, the Arkansas Corporation Commission yesterday refused to grant railroads operating in this State a 20 per cent increase in intrastate passenger rates.

QUICK JUSTICE FOR POOR AT LOW COST URGED BY HUGHES

Poverty Should Not Stand in Way of Legal Rights, Former Presidential Nominee Tells Bar Association.

SAYS DELAY CAUSES ALIENS' DISCONTENT

Aid Societies Advocated to Help Workers Obtain Fair Treatment — Convention Elects Officers.

Charles Evans Hughes of New York, who resigned as an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court to become the Republican nominee for President in 1916, spoke today at the morning session of the American Bar Association in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater on the necessity of obtaining swift justice for the poor at low cost, if aliens are to become imbued with the confidence in American institutions essential to make them loyal citizens.

"There is no more serious menace than the discontent which is fostered by a belief that one cannot enforce his legal rights because of poverty," Hughes declared. "To spread that notion is to open a broad road to Bolshevism. We cannot, as Sydney Smith said, make those content whose game is not to be content, but we can remove every just ground for complaint of administration. The way to assure the future is to promote confidence in our institutions through freedom of representation in the making of laws and through the assurance to everyone, however poor or ignorant, that he can at any time be vindicated of his rights under the law. In no other way can respect for law be maintained."

Hughes' topic was "Justice and the Poor—Legal Aid Societies, Their Function and Necessity." He related that New York City had accomplished by reorganization of its lower courts, and indorsed legal aid societies as a means for gaining justice for those who might otherwise through poverty be denied access to adequate representation in court.

More Than Instruction Needed.

"The question of Americanization is not merely one of instruction," Hughes said. "The teaching of our language, the exposition of the Constitution, the diffusing of information as to institutions, and the preaching of ideals, are not enough. The final factor in determining attitude toward government is experience. How do we interpret America to the poor and the ignorant? The question is not of what we promise, it is not one of generalizations about justice, but of the way in which we administer justice. The chief agencies in the interpretation of American justice to the unassimilated are our Magistrates and Municipal Courts. There and not from speeches, he finds out the extent to which he enjoys the equal protection of the laws.

"But, while patriotic teachings cannot offset defects in administration, exaggerated criticism or lack of proportion in statement can easily create a bad reputation which the best practice finds it difficult if not impossible to redeem. It is, after all, only a small part of our teeming population which comes into actual contact with courts. Justice must deny as well as award and her temples are always echoing the cries of dissatisfaction. We must avoid making our efforts to remedy defects in the administration of justice a cause of injury to the foundations of government itself. This does not mean that we should gloss the facts; respect for the courts should never halt honest criticism. But we must tell the whole truth and not merely a part of it. It is useless to attempt to build up the administration of justice if you spread the false notion that our judicial establishment is only the mechanism of privilege. A true picture is not a mere matter of separate detail; it must give a true perspective."

Tells of New York's Progress.

Hughes described the reorganization of the New York Magistrates' courts to provide a woman's court, a domestic relations court, a children's court, a probation court and a municipal terms court dealing with various affairs of city government, such as the enforcement of health, amusement, labor, park and truancy laws, and declared that great benefit to the poor had accrued through them.

He said that the action of municipal courts had been speeded so that it was common for cases to be tried within two weeks after the commencement of action, with cases involving wages being given such precedence that disposal often was accomplished on the day of action. He said that the total court costs would not exceed $2 and if there is no defense, $1. Machinery for arbitration without any litigation had been set up, he said.

"So far as court procedure is concerned," he said, "it would be difficult for anyone to maintain that in the municipal courts of New York there is discrimination against the poor." However, he added, there still was difficulty in the collection of judgments. "It is the money that the poor litigant wants, not a barren opinion that he is entitled to it," he said. He added that the remedy was making the marshals of the court responsible to the court. They now are political appointees, he said.

Poor Must Have Advice.

"There remains, however," Hughes continued, "the more serious difficulty and its existence shows the need for legal aid societies. The poor man must have legal advice. It would be a great mistake if for the sake of simplicity of procedure and speed we encourage the disposition of controversies according to the caprice of persons licensed to dispense the law. The poor man as well as the rich man is entitled to the law of the land. Without opportunity on the part of the poor to obtain expert legal advice, it is idle to talk of equality before the law. The legal aid society is the poor man's lawyer and gives him the essential assistance he cannot obtain elsewhere."

Hughes said that the lawyer of the great city rendered best service to the poor, not by offering personal service in matters that might be foreign to his practice, but by supporting the legal aid societies.

"The question naturally arises why should not this service be rendered by the municipal government?" he continued. "There is no theoretical reason, but unfortunately the administration of municipal government in this country has not been so successful as to justify at present its extension to this field. The service needed is one which politics would ruin."

Favors Legal Aid Bureaus.

The speaker emphasized the opportunity for service which the legal aid bureaus offered to lawyers and urged that the 40 such bureaus now existing be increased in number. "We need expert criticism of the workings of our tribunals," he added, "no merely occasional observation, but constant scrutiny. This is the way not merely to stop abuses but to prevent them. Legal aid organizations are the acute observers of the defects which lie beyond the ken of most successful lawyers, and they can readily serve to detect weak spots in administration where the poor are concerned."

Hughes was one of four programmed speakers during a symposium on legal aid which consumed the morning session. Judge Ben B. Lindsey who made procedure in the juvenile court of Denver famous, urged that such courts be established in every city and the extension of their function to a certain class of adults "mostly poor people, who might be treated very much as we treat children."

Other speakers were Ernest L. Tustin of Philadelphia on "The Relation of Legal Aid to the Community," and Reginald Heber Smith on "The Relation Between Legal Aid Work and the Administration of Justice."

Officers Are Elected.

William A. Blount of Pensacola was elected president of the association at the close of the morning session. For three years he has been president of the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, a subsidiary organization of the Bar Association. He has been otherwise active in the association for 26 years, is a private practitioner and never has held public office. He is executor of the estate of Henry M. Flagler of the Standard Oil Co.

Other officers elected were: W. Thomas Kemp of Baltimore, Md., secretary, and Frederick E. Wadhams of Albany, N. Y., treasurer. The following new members were elected to the Executive Committee: John B. Corliss of Detroit, John T. Richards of Chicago and Hugh Henry Brown of Tonopah, Nev.

This is the closing day of the meeting, which began on Wednesday. The annual dinner of the association will be held tonight in Hotel Statler. Among the speakers will be Albert La Grand of Paris, Chancellor to the Minister of War of France and former counselor to the Judge-Advocate of the American Expeditionary Forces, and Richard Bedford Bennett of Calgary, Alberta, representative of the Canadian Bar Association to the meeting.

Uniform Rules Urged.

The passage of a bill introduced to Congress at its last session empowering the United States Supreme Court to make uniform rules for Federal district courts designed to simplify procedure and promote speedy decision of litigation was recommended in a report of the Committee on Uniform Judicial Procedure, at last night's meeting in the Shubert-Jefferson Theater. The report declared that such regulations would prove an attractive model for state courts.

The special committee on change of date for the presidential inauguration reported today its recommendation, an abstract of which appeared in the Post-Dispatch several weeks ago, that the time between the election of a President of the United States and his inauguration be shortened, and that the short term of Congress be eliminated.

Shorter Period Favored.

The committee stated that the long period between election and inauguration is "liable to leave the administration in hands which have been discredited by popular vote of want of confidence and that such a situation would greatly weaken the prestige of the Government both at home and abroad." The committee added that "the three months' session of the old Congress occurring after a new Congress has been elected is also most unsatisfactory and serves as an opportunity for partisan activity of the worst kind."

LONGSHOREMEN STRIKE OVER MANNIX SEIZURE

Work on White Star Liners in New York Tied Up—Crew of Baltic Taunted.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Longshoremen stopped work on four big White Star liners here today in protest against the action of the Baltic crew in allowing British authorities to take Archbishop Mannix, pro-Irish prelate, from the ship on her last trip to England. This report was telephoned to police headquarters by officials of the line, who asked that reserves be rushed to the piers.

From the White Star line Irish sympathizers marched to the Cunard Line piers, where they claimed they had pulled out other longshoremen. Then they started for the piers of the Anchor Line.

When the Baltic docked here today on her arrival from England, her crew found women at the piers carrying banners denouncing England's attitude toward Ireland and taunting the British sailors for allowing a passenger to be taken from their decks.

The women, who claimed to be members of the "American Women's Pickets," called on crews of the ships, as well as longshoremen to quit work in protest against the action of the British authorities in the Mannix case.

Grizzly Bear in Movable Cage After Capture Following Escape

POLICE SEEKING CAPTAIN ACCUSED OF $18,789 THEFT

Jacques M. Morrell, Army Officer Wanted for Embezzlement, Could Have Taken $500,000.

It was learned today from detectives connected with the Army Intelligence Division that Capt. Jacques M. Morrell of St. Louis, also known as Moreel and as John B. Kennedy, who is being sought throughout the country for the alleged embezzlement of $18,789 while paymaster and camp finance officer at Camp Sheridan, Ala., had unlimited drawing privilege at the bank where the Government funds were kept and could have drawn $500,000 as easily as he drew the $23,000 which he took with him when he was given eight days' leave on May 31, 1919.

He went to New Orleans and before the expiration of his leave his heavy drinking and flashing of money attracted the attention of the police and he was arrested, but was released when it was found that he was an army paymaster and that his leave had not expired. He had $4000 in his pockets when arrested.

Capt. Morrell overstayed his leave and was being sought when he returned to camp and surrendered. He was not locked up, but was ordered to his quarters. He remained there four days and then walked away.

In the search for him it was found that he had deposited $5000 at Winnipeg, Canada. This was recovered.

In New Orleans Morrell is said to have been seen with a married woman, who disappeared at about the time of his escape.

The search for Capt. Morrell by army authorities has been nationwide for more than a year, but it has failed and the aid of the police is asked in a Government bulletin which was received here yesterday, as told exclusively in the Final Edition of yesterday's Post-Dispatch. The bulletin states that Morrell was born in Riga, Russia, and lived in New York for 14 years before coming to St. Louis.

His mother, Mrs. Sophia Morrell, lives at 1425 Semple avenue. She has subleased her home and with other members of her family has been spending the summer at Elmhurst, Ill. Morrell's brothers and sisters spell their name Moreel. Morrell's parents are separated. His father, Samuel Morrell, lives at Gallup, N. M. His mother, it is said, has not heard directly from him for eight years. In Gallup, before he entered the army, he is said to have killed a Mexican, but was cleared on the plea of self-defense.

Morrell was a member of Troop F, Second Cavalry, from 1906 to February, 1917, as private, trumpeter, Corporal, Sergeant and Sergeant-Major.

From Feb. 14 to Aug. 1, 1917, he was a Sergeant in the Quartermaster Corps. On Sept. 21, 1917, he was commissioned a Captain in the Quartermaster Corps and assigned to Camp Sheridan.

went west on Cabanne avenue a half block to Goodfellow avenue and north to Chamberlain avenue, which is 10 blocks north of the park. Near Goodfellow and Vernon avenues William McCabe, a driver for the St. Louis Dairy Co., had stopped his wagon to make a delivery. McCabe jumped from the wagon. The frightened horse ran away, taking the wagon along.

The pursuers, including policemen who had commandeered automobiles, were close on the heels of the bear. It turned into a driveway at the Bernet residence and ran through the open door of the garage. A window in the opposite wall of the garage was open. This was barricaded by the pursuers and the door was shut on the bear. A trail of blood was found on the driveway, and policemen who peeped through the window said the bear was wounded in the shoulder.

Bear Returned to Zoo.

Superintendent Angermeyer, who had been directing the hunt in the park, was notified and went to the garage with several of his assistants, a one-inch rope and a crate. Later a truck arrived at the garage to take the bear away.

Amusing Incidents in Chase.

Several amusing incidents occurred during the bear chase. At De Ballviere avenue and Delmar boulevard the bear trotted up behind a letter carrier and rubbed against his leg. The carrier apparently at first thought it was a dog, but when he looked down and saw the bear he dropped his mail sack and ran. The bear, seemingly as much frightened as the man, ran in the opposite direction and collided with a negro boy who quickly climbed a telephone pole.

In the same neighborhood a policeman borrowed a clothesline and tried to lasso the bear. He failed and the bear fled.

At De Ballviere and the Hodiamont tracks the bear stood on its hind feet and approached a policeman as if to hug him. The policeman sidestepped and joined in the chase after recovering from his astonishment.

The bears are 6 years old and weigh about 800 pounds each. They were brought from Yellowstone Park four years ago and donated to the St. Louis Zoo by the Government.

JUDGE BEN LINDSEY, TRYING CASE HERE, ACQUITS TWO BOYS

Tells Italian Youths in 75-Cent Holdup He Doesn't Want Them to Be Liars.

Judge Ben F. Lindsey of Denver, who has a national reputation as a juvenile court judge, and who is attending the convention of the American Bar Association, tried a case in the St. Louis Juvenile Court today by invitation of Judge Hartmann.

Two Italian boys, Gus and Dominic, were charged with holding up another Italian boy and taking 75 cents from him. When the Judge had heard the testimony and had obtained from the boys a promise that they would never do such a thing again, he told them he was going to ask Judge Hartmann to release them on good behavior, but he was going to keep in touch with their case and he did not want to hear that they had turned out to be liars.

He told them they should be square with other boys and it was not square but cowardly for two of them to rob one. He said he was in Italy during the war and knew lots of Guses and Dominics in the Italian army and they were brave soldiers, and he knew Guses and Dominics in Denver, and they were good boys, and he wanted Gus and Dominic to be worthy of their names.

He asked them if they did not want to apologize to the boy they had robbed. They did, but did not know how. So the judge framed the apology for them and they repeated it after him, like this:

"We are sorry for the low down sneaking trick that we did you and we will never do anything like that again and we promise to pay back what we took from you."

WIDOW TO DISCONTINUE PUBLISHING REEDY'S MIRROR

Next Week's Number to Be Last Under Present Management.

Announcement is made in today's issue of Reedy's Mirror that next week's issue will be the last under the present management, and that negotiations for future issues, under a new management, are going on. The announcement, which is headed "Adios," is made in a signed paragraph by Charles J. Finger, who has acted as editor since the death of William Marion Reedy.

"The next issue," the announcement continues, "will be made up entirely of selections from the writings of William Marion Reedy. As to the proposed sustention fund, such sums that have been subscribed will be returned in full to the senders.

"There was desire expressed by many that Reedy's Mirror should be carried on, but Mrs. Reedy prefers to discontinue her publication of it.

"In life many good things and good times live only in memory, and Reedy's Mirror may be one of them."

Finger was not in the city today and Frank K. Ryan, attorney for the Mirror management, was not at his office when an attempt was made to inquire more definitely as to the paper's future.

SUICIDE NOTE PROVES TO BE HOAX; WRITER IS ARRESTED

Released After Telling Police He Wanted Woman to Think Husband Had Ended Life.

Henry C. Saddlewhite, 33 years old, of 4578 Enright avenue, employed as a dishwasher at 4627 Delmar boulevard, was arrested today when the police learned that he was the author of a "suicide" note found at 6:30 a. m. on Eads Bridge, signed "Charles Kossie."

Mrs. Lucille Kossa of 758 Walton avenue, wife of Charles Kossa, said that her husband went to Detroit two weeks ago and that Saddlewhite had been trying to get her to elope with him. She pronounced the note a hoax when she saw that her husband's name had been spelled incorrectly.

Saddlewhite admitted having written the note. He said that Mrs. Kossa had rejected his advances because she was married. He wanted to make her believe that she was a widow, he said. He was taken to the city hospital for observation, but when physicians said that he was all right mentally he was released.

DEBTS LEFT BY NAT GOODWIN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The estate of Nat C. Goodwin, actor, was declared insolvent today, when Nathaniel Goodwin, his father, and administrator, filed an accounting. With assets of only $6895, the father said his son's liabilities will exceed $15,000.

Some of the largest debts are claims from Paris millinery shops, New York tailors and summer resort hotels. Thousands of shares of mining sotcks owned by Goodwin are worthless.

Switchman Killed by Train.

MRS. GILKESON MAKES BEQUESTS OF $254,200

Asks That Grave Be Made Into One With Husband's and Wants Only "Lizzie" on Headstone.

Specific bequests to the total amount of $254,200 are made in the will of Mrs. Lizzie S. Gilkeson, filed for probate here today. Mrs. Gilkeson, who died Aug. 22 at Magnolia, Mass., was the widow of John M. Gilkeson, a St. Louis commission merchant, who died about 20 years ago. For several years she was a resident at the Buckingham Hotel. No inventory of her estate has been filed.

In the will, made April 24, 1916, she named as her executors Edward B. Pryor, H. L. Stadler and Warren Johnson and she requested that her grave be made into one with her husband's, in Bellefontaine Cemetery and that her headstone bear only the word "Lizzie," with no other name and no date. She also asked that no one else be buried in the lot, with the possible exception of Etta Cohegan, who is one of the beneficiaries of the will.

Miss Cohegan, the executors said, had been a companion to Mrs. Gilkeson. She was bequeathed $15,000.

To a sister, Mrs. Mary F. Dreas of 3516 Lucas avenue, she bequeathed $20,000. To May B. Dreas, a niece, she left $15,000 and to Susan Dreas, another niece, $5000. There are bequests of $8000 each to Jane K. Woods, Mary Walker, Mollie Stubbs, Ida Wilhelm, Lucy Rutter, Kate Bonnett and Emma Bayless. She left $5000 each to John S. Farrington and his wife; $5000 to the heirs of Amos Saunders and $5000 in trust for Susan F. Avery and Natalie Avery.

$1000 to Church, $5000 to Pastor.

There are bequests of $1000 to the Episcopal Church of the Ascension, Chicago, and $5000 to the Rev. E. A. Larabee. The Racine College and the Boys' School at Hoosick, N. Y., receive $2000 each.

HYDE CRITICISED FOR ENDING BABLER FIGHT

Chairman of House Cleaners Says Candidate Endangers His Election.

T. J. Hargadon, chairman of the Republican house cleaners' committee, today gave out a statement criticising Arthur M. Hyde, Republican nominee for Governor, for abandoning the fight on Jacob L. Babler, Republican National Committeeman.

The criticism was based on statements alleged to have been made by Hyde Wednesday when he was in St. Louis attending the meeting of the Republican State Committee, to the effect that he intended to take no further part in the movement to oust Babler as national committeeman. The house cleaners' committee has had no meeting since the time of the statement attributed to Hyde. Harry E. Sprague, one of the members of the committee, told a Post-Dispatch reporter he had no knowledge of the statement.

Asserting that Hyde's strength as a candidate dated from the time he joined in the house cleaning movement, the statement warns Hyde that he cannot expect to obtain the support of Republicans interested in clean politics if he joins with Babler. "He is in danger of forfeiting his office for a mere mess of pottage by making a truce with men who now are politically dead," the statement reads. It concludes with the frequently repeated demand that Babler resign.

PROTESTS AGAINST ELECTION OFFICIALS CHOSEN BY SCHMOLL

Dr. A. H. Meyer, New Committeeman From Thirteenth Ward, Wants Own List Named.

Objections to the Republican judges and clerks of election selected by the Board of Election Commissioners on recommendation of members of the Republican City Committee were continued yesterday when Dr. A. H. Meyer, newly elected committeeman from the Thirteenth Ward, objected to the acceptance of recommendations of John Schmoll, former chairman of the committee, whom Meyer defeated for re-election in the primary Aug. 3.

The board refused to accede to Meyer's demand that the Schmoll judges and clerks should be ousted and that a list recommended by him be accepted. Meyer was told by Vincent Dempsey, a Republican member of the board, that it was necessary for the board to make up the list of officials before the primary and that under the law it was required to accept the recommendations of the committeeman, who at that time was Schmoll.

Meyer was told he could file formal charges against the judges and clerks individually.

The Seventeenth Ward Republican Club will meet tomorrow night to protest against the appointment of election officials recommended by Frank M. Slater, committeeman from that ward, on the ground that Slater was the beneficiary of election frauds in the ward in 1916 and that a number of the officials renamed at his request served in precincts in which frauds were shown to have been committed.

'POLL TAX COLLECTOR' DEFRAUDS NEWLY ENFRANCHISED WOMEN

Bogus Agent Collects Money From Women of Pittsburg, Pa.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27.—Numerous newly enfranchised Allegheny County women have been defrauded by a bogus tax collector, who went into action shortly after Secretary Colby signed the proclamation declaring woman suffrage ratified, according to an announcement made today by H. H. Rowand, District Attorney.

The fake collector, Rowand said, operated in the McKeesport district yesterday, and authorities in all sections of the county were on the lookout for him today. The bogus agent, victims reported, appeared at their homes, informed them that they must pay him a poll tax if they wanted to vote in November, collected the money, handed out a receipt, and then disappeared.

MAN KILLED AND ANOTHER SHOT IN WHISKY ROBBERY

Thieves in Truck Attempt to Raid Kansas City Oil Man's Cellar While Party Is in Progress.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—A party was in progress at the home of Charles W. Neal, wealthy oil man, late last night, when four men arrived in a motor truck, intending to steal two barrels of whisky from Neal's private stock, according to operatives of a local detective agency. In the fight which followed one of the men in the truck was killed and another injured so badly he is expected to die. Details of the fight became available today. Rifles, revolvers and sawed-off shotguns were used by the five detectives, who were aided by two policemen in uniform.

According to the detectives, the men in the truck entered the grounds of the Neal home, which is in a fashionable residence suburb. The detectives and police remained at the end of the lane leading into the grounds, and when the truck returned, after 25 minutes, ordered its occupants to halt. A volley of shots from revolvers and automatic pistols met the order. The police and detectives then opened fire. Warner Macon, one of the men in the truck, was killed, and Lloyd Wright, said to have been driving the truck, was wounded. Russell Schoth and E. J. Hanson were captured. They made a statement, according to the police, admitting that it was planned to steal Neal's whisky, but that the party going on in the house made them give up the attempt. A police Lieutenant and a Game Warden were among Neal's guests when the attempted robbery broke up the party.

ROBBERS BLOW SAFE, GET $1.64

$20 in Drawer Overlooked by Men at Kirkwood Laundry.

A safe in the office of the Kirkwood Laundry Co., in Kirkwood, was blown last night. A box containing $1.64 and papers valuable to the company was carried off. The box, minus the cash but with the papers intact, was found today on the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks near Woodlawn station. The robbers overlooked $20 in currency in a drawer in the safe.

Entrance was gained through a rear window. The robbery was not discovered until the manager arrived to open for business today. He found a crowbar and a drill on the floor near the safe.

Bedouins Kill 150 Christians.

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 27.—One hundred and fifty Christians have been killed at Ajlun, a village about 50 miles northeast of Jerusalem, by a band of Bedouins, according to a dispatch received here from Haifa, Palestine. Another dispatch states that in a recent Bedouin raid on a train near Damascus, an Italian naval officer was among the killed.

BEVERIDGE ASSAILS THEORY OF "GUILT BY ASSOCIATION"

Former Indiana Senator Condemns Conviction of Radicals Without Evidence of Individual Offenses.

ASKS FOR UNIFORMITY IN PUNISHMENT

Arrest of Persons for Being Members of a Party Held Unjust—Postmaster-General's Power Attacked.

Repressive measures and policies, in dealing with so-called radicals, were condemned by Albert J. Beveridge, former United States Senator from Indiana, in his address before the American Bar Association at the Shubert-Jefferson Theater last night.

He particularly attacked the theory of "guilt by association," which he said was a European idea and had been substituted for the American principle that guilt is personal. The specific instance which he discussed was the arrest of members of the Communist party because of the official interpretation of statements in the party platform.

He also compared the power over the press, as lodged in the Postmaster-General, with the former power of the Czar, or the power of "his equally despotic successor, the Soviet dictatorship."

"Assault Upon Fundamentals."

Former Senator Beveridge's subject was "The Assault Upon American Fundamentals." He spoke for two hours to an audience which filled the parquet and balcony floors of the theater. His introduction, in which he eulogized John Marshall, was heartily applauded, as was his attack on the manner in which the Adamson law of 1916, fixing working hours of railroad employes, was enacted under threat of a strike. Of the Adamson law, the speaker said:

"When, by menacing the nation with disaster, organizations compel Congress to submit to a ukase issued by the chiefs of those organizations, a blow is struck at the very existence of regular government under general laws freely passed by duly elected representatives of all the people. This was the vital issue raised by the methods by which the Adamson law was forced upon the statute books. The merits of that law had absolutely nothing to do with the method by which its enactment was coerced. That issue ought to have been fought out the moment it appeared. It must be fought out in the end. Mere adjustment is temporary, invites new demands in the expectation of other like adjustments and makes sterner the final conflict. If organizations of a small part of the people are allowed to overawe Congress and President, then free representative government ceases, and the whole nation is ruled by the eccentric despotism of particular groups which happen to be strong enough, physically, to enforce their will. This is the very principle which, asserted by that tyranny which now scourges desolated Russia."

The "fundamentals," as outlined by the speaker, are the principles contained in the first, fourth and fifth amendments to the Constitution, which declare religious liberty, freedom of speech and the right of petition; prohibit unreasonable searches and seizures; and define the right to life, liberty and property and the rights of persons accused of crime.

Guarantees Omitted.

"The guarantees secured by these amendments were omitted from the Constitution," Beveridge said, "because it was conceded that they were not necessary. But the people at large were not satisfied. State after State demanded that Congress be specifically prohibited, in unmistakable terms, in the national Constitution itself, from enacting legislation restricting the liberties and privileges the American people then enjoyed."

He proceeded to describe the repressive policies which then prevailed in England, and which were familiar to many of the colonists. The strained relations with the French republic, and the sharp divisions which arose for this reason, caused the Federalist majority in Congress, "in an hour of madness and in the midst of terrific popular excitement," to enact the Alien and Sedition laws of 1798. John Marshall, then a Federalist candidate for Congress, "deplored the folly of his party associates," as did Alexander Hamilton, but "most of the influential leaders—the wise, rich and good, as they called themselves—had completely lost their heads. Terror of the French revolution and hatred of democracy had extinguished their common sense."

Drastic Policy of Judges.

The drastic policy followed by Judges in prosecutions under the new laws was then recounted. The election of Thomas Jefferson as President, and the election of a Congress opposed to the obnoxious laws, settled this question, and "there the matter rested for more than 100 years."

"Until recently," the speaker said, "the construction of the First amendment by the Federalist Judges, when enforcing the Sedition Act of 1798, has been ignored. Everybody supposed that the opinions of those Judges on sedition were extinct. But, because there happened to be no judicial reversal of their decisions, the old common-law doctrine of sedition as announced by them has continued to burrow in our jurisprudence, unnoted, forgotten and hidden, but living and potential; and this ancient theory, resuscitated, has governed the rulings and decisions of many Courts during the last few years.

"Thus, in the numerable prosecutions under the espionage act, the common-law doctrine of the Eighteenth century was resurrected—that if words have a tendency to produce the evils prohibited, and if those evils might be the result of such language, the accused person is guilty of having intended the consequences which his objectionable statements might have a tendency to create."

Application in Future War.

Beveridge pointed out that the espionage act is still in force, and he raised the question of its application in a future war, when public sentiment might not be so united as was the case during the war with Germany. As possible instances, he mentioned a war, undertaken together with Great Britain and France, against revolutionary Russia, or an invasion of Mexico. He said that if such a law had been enforced during the Mexican War, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, James Russell Lowell and Charles Sumner would have been liable to prosecution under it. He cited the opinion of the United States Supreme Court in the Civil War period, declaring that none of the constitutional safeguards, except the writ of habeas corpus, could be disturbed.

He then spoke of the recent treatment of the Communists, saying:

"At the beginning of the present year, almost 14 months after our war with Germany was over, great numbers of people were seized, their premises searched and their property taken, all without warrant or due process of law. All this was done without the least reference to the late war. In arranging for the making of these mass arrests the services of spies—"our under-cover informants," as the Government instructions term them—were made use of. It is difficult to see wherein in the work of these persons differs from that of the Russian or French agents provocateur.

Some Were Citizens.

"While most of those thus treated were aliens, some of them were citizens. The terrible facts of these wholesale arrests and incarcerations, and the brutalities accompanying them, are not only vouched for by trustworthy lawyers—including eminent professors of law in a leading university—who have personally investigated them and who are inspired exclusively by a sense of public duty; not only supported by overwhelming evidence not yet successfully refuted, or satisfactorily explained; but in specific cases those facts have been judicially found to be facts by the courts.

"The manner in which the official machinery was set in motion, to effect these arrests, seizures and searches, reveals a startling and serious defect in our laws. Under the statutary provision that any alien must be deported who belongs to an organization that advocates or believes in the violent overthrow of our Government, the decision as to whether an organization is of the kind described in the statute can only be made by a single administrative official of the National Government. Thus the power of determining the meaning of party platforms and proscribing, in mass, great numbers of individuals because of mere nominal membership in those parties, is exercised exclusively and definitively by the Secretary of Labor. No court in the land has in practical effect a small fraction of the judicial authority which is thus exercised by this administrative official.

Injustice of Power Shown.

"The extent and delicacy of this arbitrary power is strikingly shown by the Secretary's official condemnation of one among several organizations of like general character. The broad reprehensible aims of such organizations as the Industrial Workers of the World, the Communist party, the Communist Labor party and even the Socialist party are not dissimilar; the platforms or programs of the Communist party and the Communist Labor party differ principally in that one contains more extravagant language than the other. The Secretary held that the program of the Communist party advocates the forcible overthrow of the Government, and all members of that party are thus, automatically, subject to deportation; whereas the members of the other parties named are safe, because the Secretary did not find in their party manifestos of such fell designs.

"That the meaning of the language used in these party programs may not be so clear, simple and free from doubt, that all men will agree to the meaning is shown by the fact that after prolonged and careful study a Judge of the United States Court, in the decision of cases directly before him, put an entirely different construction upon the language which the Secretary of Labor condemned. The Secretary is sure that the platform of the Communist party declares that our Government should be overthrown by force of arms, and pledges its members to such violent action; whereas the Judge is equally certain that it counsels only the use of the strike as a political weapon. Perhaps strikes for political purposes should be made unlawful; but this has not yet been done.

Delicacy of Arbitrary Power.

"This radical difference in opinion between two equally sincere and patriotic officials, one in the judical and the other in the administrative department of our Government, shows the extraordinary delicacy of the arbitrary power which our law places exclusively in the hands of a single official. Ought not the law be so amended as to relieve the Secretary of Labor from the duty and responsibility of making the sole and official decision as to the meaning of party platforms; since his decision affects not single individuals as individuals, because of particular offenses, but great numbers of individuals who happen to be members of the organization, solely because of membership. Would it not be advisable to associate with the Secretary of Labor in the making of such sweeping decisions, at least two other Cabinet members—say the Secretary of the Interior and the Attorney-General?

BEVERIDGE ASSAILS THEORY OF "GUILT BY ASSOCIATION"

"Might it not be wise even to constitute a court to pass upon such broad questions; and also to decide questions referred to it by the Postmaster-General, as to whether publications should be excluded from the mails? Certainly that terrific power should not be imposed upon one man, any more than the authority to determine the meaning of certain party platforms should be thrust upon one man. It is as grotesque as it is false to say that speech and press are free, while a single administrative official may prevent the circulation of writings and publications. It is as if the First Amendment were valid in an uninhabited desert, but void wherever anybody lives. What practical difference is there between the power over the press now lodged in the Postmaster-General and that formerly employed by the censor of the Czar, or by that of his equally despotic successor, the Soviet dictatorship?

Appeals for More Just Method.

"As to the power of condemning and deporting aliens in the mass because of mere membership in a party whose platform is construed to advocate violence, cannot a more effective, just and humane method be found to deal with the alien problem? We must remember that we have invited these foreigners to our shores; our traditional policy followed too recklessly, has been to proclaim America as the 'refuge of the oppressed'; in our haste to force the abnormal growth in our industries, alien workers have actually been sought out and contracted for abroad. Our immigration laws are an implied contract with the immigrant, just as Marshall held our tariff law to be an implied contract covering imported goods. Moreover, these aliens perform heavy and unpleasant but absolutely indispensable labor for the doing of which we native Americans have little stomach. The alien, therefore, merely because he is an alien, must not be presumed to be an enemy, not yet a creature without rights which any body else is bound to consider.

"Yet not for a moment can he be permitted to disturb our public peace—not for a moment can he be allowed, as an alien, to disrupt our political life. Would it not be better, therefore, if we adopted one sound and saving feature of the naturalization law of 1798, an require the alien to reside in this country several years—say 10 years—before permitting him to become a citizen, to require him to become naturalized at the expiration of this probational period or immediately to leave the country; and to forbid him, under pain of deportation, from becoming a member of any political party or organization whatever during the probationary period? There are, of course, obvious objections to this plan; but it is certainly better than the present confused, unjust and dangerous situation. Surely the solution of the problem is not beyond the wisdom of Congress.

Fault in European Principle.

"Even more serious than the immigration and alien questions, is the European principle of 'guilt by association' which has been introduced into our national and State laws. If for mere membership in organizations, individuals are to be condemned for believing in, advocating and working to accomplish every plank, sentence or word in their party platforms, it must be because of a new rule of common sense and human nature never before discovered. It is general knowledge that large numbers of individuals, even the most intelligent, belonging to the Republican and Democratic parties, do not read carefully all of their party platforms; some do not read their party platforms at all; even greater numbers do not agree to each and every party pronouncement; there is violent difference within every party as to the true meaning of various platform planks.

"Thus, even if Secretary Wilson is right and Judge Anderson wrong in his construction of the language of the long, confused and obscure Communist party program, still is it reasonable or just to condemn and punish men and women solely because the party records show them to be members of that party, regardless of whether those men and women approve of the language which the Secretary of Labor finds to mean one thing and Judge Anderson concludes to mean another thing? And if, as actually was the case, many of those who were thus members did not approve of the objectionable language of the party program as interpreted by Secretary Wilson, but on the contrary emphatically objected to that language as so construed, or if, as was also the case, others had never read the party manifesto; if, as was also the case, many members supposed they still belonged to the Socialist party under a different name, having been transferred automatically from one party to the other because of a schism in the parent party—should any of these members, wholly innocent of belief in or even knowledge of the obnoxious words in the party platform, be held guilty, exclusively because of nominal membership in that proscribed organization? It must be borne in mind that in some State statutes, mere membership in proscribed organizations has been made criminal, regardless of whether the members are aliens or citizens. In short, is unconscious 'guilt by association' instead of conscious guilt of individual intent and action to be the American theory hereafter? We must make choice between them, since the two theories are antagonistic and irreconcilable.

"Until recent years the idea that 'guilt is personal' has been a fundamental principle of American jurisprudence. As a matter of justice and humanity, no reason has ever been advanced against it. The only great argument in opposition to it and in favor of the European principle of 'guilt by association' is exclusively an argument of policy. It is said that the adoption and enforcement of the principle of 'guilt by association' is necessary to prevent the formation and growth of dangerous organizations. Perhaps this will turn out to be true in America at the present time. If so, there can be no objection to that policy by those of us who adhere to the existing order of society. But is it true? Has not repeated experience in various countries proved that the enactment of that principle into law, and the execution of such law, has not produced the intended and desired result?".

Urges Uniform Punishment.

The speaker proceeded to argue that if some members of a proscribed party are punished, all ought to be; and that forcible suppression, while it may quiet agitation for a time, tends to make it more formidable. He said he spoke from a standpoint of hostility to "the whole movement of which the various branches of the Socialist party are manifestations." From this standpoint, he argued against repression as the historic practice of autocracy. He said young men and women had a natural impulse toward the examination of radical ideas; and that the denial of an opportunity for such examination tended to increase this youthful interest in the forbidden doctrines.

"If liberty is worth keeping, and free representative government worth saving," he said, "we must stand for all American fundamentals—not some, but all. If one is prostrated, others will fall. The success or failure of the American theory of society and government depends on our fidelity to every one of those interdependent parts of that immortal charter of orderly freedom, the Constitution of the United States."

TWO MEN ROB STORE OF $200 AND ESCAPE

Man Robbed by Two in Auto Who Call Him to Curb and Take Watch.

Two armed men who stepped from an automobile held up Edward Huelsebush, 1131 Brooklyn street, in his grocery at that number at 7 p. m. yesterday, compelling Huelsebush, his wife, Lena; his father, Henry, and William Gestring, 1123 Tyler street, a customer, to walk behind a partition where one of the men held them prisoners while the second searched the store. The robber found a cash box containing $200 which had been hidden in a back room, and the two ran back to the machine, and were driven away by a third man who had waited outside. Huelsebush attempted to follow the automobile, but lost the trail at Tenth and Tyler streets, a few blocks from the store.

Irvin S. Lang of 5540 Pershing avenue was hailed by two men in an automobile as the machine drew alongside the curb at Union and Waterman avenues at 10:15 p. m. Believing they wanted to ask some directions, he approached the machine, whereupon the two drew revolvers, and, without getting out of the car, took his watch and chain, which he valued at $150, and drove away.

Louis Fisk, a guest at the Sinton Hotel, Delmar boulevard and King's highway, was stopped by two armed men near Enright avenue on Goodfellow avenue at 12:40 a. m. today who robbed him of $78. The men after ordering Fisk to "walk south," ran into an alley, where they are believed to have had an automobile waiting.

Favors Federal Loans for Housing.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 6.—In a special message just sent to Congress, President Pessoa points out the urgency of solving the housing problem in the Federal District. He deprecates the actual building of houses by the Government, but recommends indirect assistance by the granting of loans to private building companies and individuals at a low rate of interest.

IN this issue, Paris takes a straw ballot on the autumn mode. Ventures its newest ideas in frocks, and hesitates among a regal collection of furs. Fabrics from Paris and New York, frocks from the Paris fetes and theatres, smart hats under smarter veils and what society is wearing to the races, to tea, at Newport. Every activity that has a bearing on what will actually and ultimately be worn, is shown in numberless drawings and photographs and written about in the brilliant articles in this new Vogue. Also, over 80 Vogue designs for the seamstress, clearly and informatively drawn, showing costumes for every occasion, are in this issue. NEGRO, HOUR BEFORE EXECUTION, ADMITS KILLING 2 WHITE GIRLS Prisoner Escaped From Springfield, Mo., Jail on Night Mob Lynched Three Others for Crime.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—An hour before he followed the cripple, John Egan, to the electric chair in Sing Sing last night, Frank Kelley, formerly of Springfield, Mo., a negro desperado, who was put to death for the killing of a white girl in a Brooklyn robbery, confessed to another similar crime, for which he says an innocent man is now serving sentence.

Illiterate, but precise in its dates and facts, the confession rehearses the killing of another white girl between last Oct. 15 and November 1. He gave the scene of the crime as Huntersfly Road, between Church Avenue and "Johnny Meal's farm house" and said that robbery was the motive of his earlier murder, as it was for the one for which he was executed.

Kelley, who had killed a man on the campus of Drury college, was in the Springfield jail on a night when a mob broke into the building and lynched three negroes who had attacked a white girl. Kelley crept from the jail and escaped in the confusion. Later he joined the navy and reached New York City.

NEPHEW TO CONTEST SEARLES' WILL GIVING CLERK $50,000,000

In So Doing, He Risks Loss of $250,000,000, Under Provision of Will.

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, Mass., Aug. 27.—A contest of the will of Edward F. Searles, the millionaire recluse of Methuen who left an estate of more than $50,000,000 with Arthur T. Walker, a New York clerk, as residuary legatee, will be made by Albert Victor Searles of Boston, a nephew, it was learned yesterday.

In attempting to break the will, the nephew, who was given $250,000, opposes a provision by which the millionaire directed that anyone contesting it would lose all to which they might be entitled. The procedure of the nephew will be to make formal objection to allowance of the will when it comes up for probate, Sept. 7, and then ask for special administration of the estate pending adjudication.

J. Busselman, 40, of 4312 Margaretta avenue.

GIRL DIES SEATED AT PIANO

Autopsy Shows Nothing Unusual—Death Ascribed to Larynx Edema.

An autopsy was performed upon the body of Miss Ruth Baird, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry N. Baird, who died yesterday at her home, in Edwardsville, but no unusual condition was revealed.

While seated at the piano practicing the girl was seized with a pain in her throat and died. Physicians, in making out the death certificate, ascribed edema of the larynx, commonly called swelling of the voice box, as the cause.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbug (Cimex lectularius). The origin of the name bedbug is unknown, but is supposed to be naturally suggested as it is descriptive. There are many local names for these parasites, as for illustration, around Boston they are called "Chinches," from Baltimore comes the name "Mahogany Flat," in New York they are styled as "Red Coats," around Pittsburgh they are called "Pesky Devils," in Cincinnati and the South "Nightriders," in St. Louis and Chicago district "Crimson Ramblers," the great West "Pilgrims." The old saying, "the bedbug has no teeth, but they get there just the same," is correct. Instead of teeth they possess a piercing and sucking beak to draw and rob you of your blood for their own body.

Bedbugs, no matter what you may call them, or where they came from, science has found a way to rid them if you will use faithfully the new chemical, "Pesky Devils' Quietus, "P. D. Q." A 50c package makes one quart enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas, ants or cootie, and their eggs as well. P. D. Q. will not injure bedding, and each package contains a patent spout to enable you to get them in the hard-to-get-at-places. Inspector for Health Department, where P. D. Q. is used, said he would use it. Sold by Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney, Wolff-Wilson, Johnson & Kershaw, Boyd, St. Louis, and other leading druggists.

NEW YORK DEPARTMENT STORES BUY FURNITURE IN ST. LOUIS.

Why do such large department stores as John Wanamaker and Gimbel Brothers come to St. Louis to purchase furniture?

Because the upholstered living room furniture has merit. The models are the very latest and the coverings are of the most exquisite materials.

All these goods are made in the Prufrock & Litton Furniture Company's factory at Fourth and St. Charles streets, where the upholstering is done by skilled workmen, on the upper floors of their building.

This company will, for seven days more, sell this living room furniture at greatly reduced prices, which will also apply to dining room and bedroom suites; all of which are plainly marked with the usual white price ticket and the red sale price ticket.

This store is open all day tomorrow, Saturday, for the convenience of those who cannot come to inspect this furniture during the week.

Last Saturday many people took advantage of these reduced prices and selected their furniture to be delivered in September or October.

SURE WAY TO GET RID OF DANDRUFF

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy has never been known to fail.

CHURCH FACTIONS TAKE THEIR ROW TO COURT

Congregation of Albanian Church Splits Over Boston Clergyman's Claim as Bishop.

Contested claims of the Rev. Father Noli of Boston that he is a legal Bishop of the Albanian Orthodox Church are the basis of a disagreement which has reduced the Church of St. Dimitri of that faith, located at 1024 Mississippi avenue, from 100 to 46 members and has brought the members of the congregation into the Circuit Court with their troubles.

One faction, that headed by Anton Tangaleti, which is favorable to Noli, yesterday obtained a temporary injunction restraining the other group, headed by Nickola Anton, 2971 Easton avenue, from holding services in the church tomorrow and Sunday.

The petition filed by the Tangaleti faction charges that many of the other group, which took possession of the church Aug. 23, are not legal members of the church and that the Rev. Father Naum Cera is not eligible to officiate at masses in their church as he was scheduled to do tomorrow and Sunday. The petition was signed by Tangaleti as president and by officers as follows: Victor Kosta, Louis Bici, Nicholas J. Faste and Petro Postol.

Men Appointed by Noli.

Anton today said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that these men were not elected by the congregation according to religious laws, but were appointed by Noli, who was in St. Louis April 23 last.

Anton submitted a copy of "The Justice," an Albanian paper published at Watertown, Mass., of the issue of May 31, last, in which Archbishop Alexander of New York, recognized head of the Albanian church in the United States and the Aleutian Islands, off the west coast of Alaska, discussed the Noli controversy. In a pastoral letter published in English, the Archbishop asserted that Noli had been elected a Bishop but never had been consecrated, hence had no real authority. Noli, with the Rev. Father Vasil Marko, until two months ago pastor of the Church of St. Dimitri, now are in Europe for the purpose of trying to appeal from the action of Archbishop Alexander.

Organized Church in 1918.

Anton said that he, with the Rev. Father Cere, had organized the Church of St. Dimitri under a pro forma decree from Circuit Court, Oct. 31, 1918, and had purchased a stone residence at 1024 Mississippi, which was transformed into a church. They paid $8000 for it, the money having been raised among Albanians by the Rev. Father Cere. Though a native Albanian, he has been in the United States nine years and was the first pastor of the Church of St. Dimitri. He was here on a visit when Marko left two months ago, and members of the Anton faction urged him to take up the pastorate here again.

The Tangaleti group objected because the Rev. Father Cere refused to admit Noli's authority, Anton said, and locked up the church. Last Tuesday he and his friends, who had held an election Aug. 1, at which he was elected president, broke the locks off the door of the church and put on a new set.

They discovered that the clerical vestments and communion service, valued at $500, had been taken away.

Anton is a restaurant keeper, as is Angielo Liask, secretary of his group. Others of his faction are Laze Pappas of 1105 Chouteau avenue, Sam George of 1500 Chouteau avenue and Backtash Gyrgivitsa.

BUENOS AIRES SHIP WORKERS END BOYCOTT ON U. S. SHIP

Controversy Arose Early This Week Over Captain's Refusal to Discharge Six of Crew.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 27.—Announcement is made here that the Ship Workers' Union has called off the boycott declared against the American steamer Edward Sewall early this month because of a controversy between the union, the captain of the ship and the immigration authorities.

Six members of the crew asked to be discharged here, but the officials would not permit them to land, claiming such action would be in violation of the law forbidding sailors to come into the country from their ships. The union insisted the men must be discharged and refused to work on repairs needed by the vessel.

The captain of the Edward Sewall has agreed to discharge the men and pay their passage home, and has thus satisfied all parties to the controversy.

Daughter to Visit Wilhelm.

WIERINGEN, Holland, Aug. 26.—The former German Crown Princess, who has been visiting her husband here, left here yesterday to visit the former German Emperor and Empress. She was accompanied by two of her sons, the other two remaining here with their father.

Care and Responsibility.

THE responsibility attached to the preparing of a remedy for infants and children is undoubtedly greater than that imposed upon the manufacturer of remedies for adults whose system is sufficiently strong to counteract, for a time at least, any injurious drug. It is well to observe that Castoria is prepared today, as it has been for the past 40 years, under the personal supervision of Mr. Chas. H. Fletcher.

What have makers of imitations and substitutes at stake? What are their responsibilities? To whom are they answerable? They spring up today, scatter their nefarious wares broadcast, and disappear tomorrow.

Could each mother see the painstaking care with which the prescription for Fletcher's Castoria is prepared: could they read the innumerable testimonials from grateful mothers, they would never listen to the subtle pleadings and false arguments of those who would offer an imitation of, or substitute for, the tried and true Fletcher's Castoria.

Exact Copy of Wrapper.

Children Cry For

Fletcher's CASTORIA

A Word About Truth.

"Great is Truth, and mighty above all things." So says the Old Testament, yet it is equally true to-day. Truth shows no favors, fears no enemies.

From the inception of Fletcher's Castoria, Truth has been the watchword, and to the conscientious adherence to this motto in the preparation of Fletcher's Castoria as well as in its advertising is due the secret of its popular demand.

All imitations, all substitutes, all just-as-good preparations lack the element of Truth, lack the righteousness of being, lack all semblance even in the words of those who would deceive.

And you! Mothers, mothers with the fate of the World in your hands, can you be deceived? Certainly not.

Fletcher's Castoria is prepared for Infants and Children. It is distinctly a remedy for the little ones. The BABY'S need for a medicine to take the place of Castor Oil, Paregoric and Soothing Syrups was the sole thought that led to its discovery. Never try to correct BABY'S troubles with a medicine that you would use for yourself.

MOTHERS SHOULD READ THE BOOKLET THAT IS AROUND EVERY BOTTLE OF FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Yesterday's contributions to the Post-Dispatch Pure Milk and Free Ice Fund amounted to $113.82, making one of the largest days in point of receipts that the fund has had this month and bringing the fund to a total of $4210.33. This leaves $2689.67 to be raised before the minimum goal of $7000, the amount needed to meet the summer's expenses, is reached.

The children of the 1900 block on Burd avenue raised $44.17 at an entertainment and refreshment sale at the home of Miss Hannah Gillerman, last Wednesday evening. The program included a sketch "When Grandma Went to School," and several songs and dances. Mrs. T. R. Dodsley played the part of the village school teacher and directed the children in the play. Those who took part were: Josephine and Marie Boggiano, Hannah, Gertrude and Elliott Gillerman, Marie and Johnny Longo, Sadie and Morris Levin, Vera Losche, Emanuel Franzel, Bernice Rader, Marian Zonnis, Margaret Phillips, Harold Weisler, Dena Rovak, Jesse Seidel, Dorothy and Teddy Turk and Rena and Olivia Pierotte.

A show at 4420 Easton avenue recently earned $28.30 for the Milk and Ice Fund. Fannie Shulman, 4415 Easton avenue, managed the entertainment. Assisting her in the performance were: Edith Inselberg, Sadie and Bessie Lander, Martha and Katie Shulman, Julia Fiscko, Mary and Elizabeth Krall and Diana and Frances Maltz. Lemonade was sold between the acts and following the performance by Sol Inselberg and Martin Weinbach.

Six friends of the babies gave a show at 4158 Shenandoah avenue which netted $7 for the fund. Their names follow: Olene Williams, Ruth Hoffman, Leo Schwartz, Calvin Hoffman, Carol McCully and Margaret Prichard.

A show at 4147 Flad avenue, under the management of six girls, made $5.35. The girls were: Evelyn Convy, Corinne Hachtman, Valeska Walt, Dolores Heine, Mary Turner and Charlotte Darrish.

Ruth and Corinne Yawitz, with the assistance of Muriel Bensinger, conducted a lemonade stand in the 4200 block of Lafayette avenue and cleared $4 for the Milk and Ice Fund.

A cash contribution of $25 was received yesterday from a Wellington, (Mo.) friend of the babies, who requested that the acknowledgment of its receipt be made to "Subscriber."

TAXICAB DRIVER ROBBED OF MACHINE BY HIS PASSENGER

Man Later Attempts to Back Car Into Jefferson Garage—Suspect Arrested.

They are stealing yellow taxicabs now. One was stolen early today and one the night before.

Arthur Hartman, 4427 Wilcox avenue, responded to a yellow taxi call at 1:30 a. m. at Grand avenue and Olive street. A man about 25 years old told him to drive to Grand and Easton avenues. There the man got out and looked around and got back in the machine. He said the man who was to meet him there was not there and ordered Hartman to drive to Sixth and Market streets. Near 2900 Lucas avenue, Hartman said, the man drew a revolver and ordered Hartman out of the machine and drove away.

At 2:30 a. m. a man attempted to back a yellow taxi into the Jefferson Garage, at Twelfth and Locust streets. He was ordered out by James Wilson and King Parsons, employes. He snapped a revolver at them and drove away. Half an hour later the cab was found abandoned at Nineteenth and Pine streets.

William Cronin, 24 years old, 3683 Olive street, a chauffeur, was arrested and was identified as the man at the Jefferson Garage but not by Hartman. Cronin said he knew nothing of the theft of the cab. No revolver was found on him. He was held.

UNIVERSITY CITY WOMEN EXPECT TO VOTE FOR MAYOR

First Appearance at Ballot Boxes in Missouri Probably Will Be September 7.

Women of University City expect to vote at the special election for Mayor, to be held Tuesday, Sept. 7. This will be the first appearance of women as voters in Missouri. Women were enfranchised as voters in all elections, for all offices, by the suffrage amendment to the National Constitution, the ratification of which was declared by the Secretary of State yesterday. Registration is not required in University City.

Plans for getting out the women voters at the special election were discussed last night at a rally of the supporters of Warren G. Flynn, one of the candidates for the vacant office of Mayor. The meeting was held at 6670 Delmar boulevard. Raymond Walsh, a member of the County Court, presiding. Harry W. Castlen is the other candidate for Mayor.

The "Reds" Are On The Run

The gallant struggle of the Poles to save their capital from capture has at last been crowned with success, and the Bolshevist reverse bids fair to become a rout, according to an arresting article in this week's number of THE LITERARY DIGEST, dated August 28th, on this spectacular turning of the tide of war. The Minneapolis Journal is quoted as saying that "the Bolshevik menace to Western civilization, if any, is now political," while an Eastern paper is sure that "Bolshevism has shot its bolt." The Newark Evening News asserts that "lowering of Bolshevism's prestige will naturally be followed by reactions within Russia," and the New York World declares that "it was not merely a battle that Poland won in front of Warsaw, but the right to assume a position of equality at the peace table."

CALL ISSUED FOR REPUBLICAN WOMEN'S COMMITTEE ELECTION

Chairman Hughes Hopes to Merge Organizations With Men's Under One Chairman.

Chairman J. G. Hughes, of the Republican State Committee, today issued a call for the election of members of women's Republican county, congressional and State committees, laying down a procedure under which he hopes to fuse each of those organizations with the corresponding men's organization, under one chairman in each instance.

He directed that primaries or mass meetings be held in each ward or precinct Sept. 4 to elect members of the county committees, that those committees on Sept. 7 elect members of the congressional committees and that they, in turn, on Sept. 11 elect members of the Women's State Committee. He said that he will ask the members of the men's State Committee to seat the women on an equal basis with themselves and adopt a resolution extending to them the power to vote in the committee.

His plan is to have the women elect one of their number tobe vice-chairman of the State Committee, to direct the women's work. He said Miss Alma Sasse, chairman of the present women's Republican State Committee, is in harmony with the procedure.

Hughes directs that in St. Louis primaries or mass meetings be held in each ward Sept. 4, under direction of Chairman Strodtman of the men's City Committee.

SOUTHPAW KERR HAS WON 12 OF LAST 13 BATTLES FOR LEADING WHITE SOX

When Dick Kerr, the St. Louis southpaw with the Chicago White Sox, stopped the New York Yankees yesterday, he gained his seventh successive victory and his twelfth conquest in 13 starts since July 5. His present winning streak started against the Yankees Aug. 4. The lone defeat suffered by the left-hander came at the hands of the Athletics.

Kerr since July 5 has pitched 116 2-3 innings, and in that time has yielded 42 runs, an average of 3.24 per game. The hits off him total 106. During his run of victories he has beaten the Yankees three times.

The southpaw, who got off to a bad start, right now is one of Gleason's main reliances.

Peterson Beats Gibbons.

C. C. Peterson defeated E. Gibbons, 100—33, in the all-comers handicap red-ball tournament at Peterson's yesterday. Peterson had a high run of 22. In the evening, Herbert Peterson won from his father, 45 to 89. Next week Peterson will meet all comers at cushion caroms.

Frank Kramer Finally Loses.

NEWARK, N. J.—Pete Moeskops, the champion of Holland, gave thousands of bicycle fans a big surprise at the Newark Velodrome yesterday by defeating Frank L. Kramer in two straight heats of a one-mile match race.

Brooklyn won the first of the series from the Cubs, 5—3, and is only .003 behind Cincinnati.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Four Real Rounds Are Plenty.

ROGER CORNELL'S second effort to popularize four-round boxing events at the First Regiment Armory will be made tonight, when six bouts will be decided, weather and other conditions permitting.

The first attempt to get a toe-hold here with the "semiprofessional" contests resulted in a financial horror, owing partly to inclement weather conditions. The bouts were held indoors, but the fans refused to attend in satisfactory numbers.

Tonight's events were programmed by the promoters, Messrs. Cornell and James Solari, as follows:

Jack Delaney, who hails from a near-beer athletic club, vs. Joe Smith, advertised as from "the De Baliviere car barns." As to further characteristics of either fighter, the deponent sayeth not, save that they are heavyweights.

Eddie Lennon, the aged Frisco veteran, vs. Young Dundee, both locally known professionals, the former very good in his day—which was some days ago. Lennon is classed as a bantam.

Willie Colonna, who needs no introduction, and "Swede" Johnson, whose past is shrouded in Mystery and Minneapolis, whence he came "well recommended," a eulogy asserts. The boys agitate the beam at 126, or more.

George Lindsay, a graduate amateur, will oppose Harry McCord, a middleweight "pro" of some experience.

Meyer Bender will have another whirl at Kid Bell of Memphis, who pained and surprised our local pride at the Battery A recently. Meyer intimates that he will make Bell ring off this time.

Charley Silver of St. Louis and Johnny Thompson "of Houston, Tex.," will supply the main event. Silver is a good, willing boy, but Thompson is as yet unrevealed.

Walter Heisner will keep 'em all straight.

Four-Round Game Justified.

THE four-round game promises lots of earnest fighting as most of the boys are lads coming up and eager to gain experience. Two or three of the events on tonight's card will surely result in rousing scraps, especially the one between Bell and Bender.

The four-round game is expected to fill in a gap here between the amateur and professional ranks, and to afford a needed gradation for those simon pures who are eager to leave the amateur nest without taking the big jump into the regular professional whirl.

It isn't by any means the highly-paid celebrity who gives the best ring entertainment in these days of safety-first champions and grab-it-and-run visiting "mitt" men.

Make it big mitt men, Bo.

Kid Bandy Is "Back."

KID BANDY, who was an onlooker at the bout between Joe Burman and Frankie Daly this week, saw enough to convince him that it was time to get back into the fight game and give the public a real run for its money. When his hand is O.K. Bandy is the boy that can do it, if trying hard means anything.

Nearly one year ago Sandy broke a bone in his hand and it was slow in recovering. He has fought but once since that time and did not make a rip-roaring impression. He favored his weakened mauley throughout. He says that today it is all right and that he will be able to give his best.

On the strength of this representation he has been matched to fight next Wednesday at the Battery A outdoor drill yard, with Ray Rivers, a Los Angeles lightweight of some reputation. Rivers is fighting in East Chicago tomorrow night.

Bandy has been in training several days. His victory over Harry Kabakoff, which he achieved after breaking his hand early in the bout, is well and favorably remembered by local fans.

PIKEWAY COACH TRYING TO SCHEDULE FOOTBALL GAME HERE FOR OCT. 9

Director of Athletics Rider, who will specialize as coach of the Washington University football eleven, this year, is trying to close the October 9 gap in the Pikeway schedule, with a contest against a secondary eleven on the home grounds.

Westminster College of Fulton, has asked for an early October date and may be accomodated, if willing to play in St. Louis. Coach Rutherford's eleven made the trip to Fulton, two years ago, so that a return contest here is in order.

In case the Westminster arrangements cannot be completed, Coach Rider would like to hear from some Missouri Intercollegiate or other eleven willing to play in St. Louis on Oct. 9.

WHITE SOX BAT AGAINST MAYS WITHOUT PROTEST

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Chicago club of the American League gave proof positive today that it does not intend to aid the movement of the Cleveland club to inaugurate a strike against Carl Mays, New York pitcher. The move of the Cleveland club is said to have been started as revenge against Mays because of the accident that resulted in the death of Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop.

Manager Huggins of the Yankees nominated Mays to pitch against Chicago today and the White Sox took their turn at bat in the first inning without a word or murmur. The Chicago players held a meeting before the game and it was decided to take no formal action on the Cleveland petition to participate in a strike against Mays.

The attendance today was about 15,000. The fans appeared as though they were exerting themselves to impress upon Mays that they were in his corner. They cheered the Yankee pitcher at every opportunity.

The most sensational play of the day was made by Davie Black, Vancouver, who turned in a card for 72.

John Collins Day Sept. 15.

MISS CUMMINGS PLAYS MRS. LETTS IN WESTERN GOLF TOURNEY FINALS

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Miss Edith Cummings, Onwentsia Country Club, and Mrs. F. C. Letts, Glen Oak Country Club, champion in 1916 and 1917, are paired for the final match tomorrow, in the championship flight of the women's Western Golf Association tournament. They won their contests today in the semi-finals at the Oak Park Country Club.

Miss Elizabeth Klotz, Indian Hill Country Club, Chicago champion, went down in defeat before the consistent playing of Miss Cummings, who won one up. Miss Cummings won the second, fifth and ninth holes going out, and halved the third, sixth and seventh for a score or 45 to 46. On the second nine they finished even, each coming in with a card of 45.

Mrs. Letts' victory in the second match came more easily when she finished 5 up and 3 to go over Mrs. Melvin Jones.

Richards and Clothier will play in the final tomorrow.

ENGLISH STARS PROTEST AGAINST WITHDRAWING FROM OLYMPIC MEETS

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The British Olympic team has jointly written a letter to the London Times protesting against the movement in England favoring withdrawal of Great Britain from Olympic meets. The letter declares that, contrary to the statements of Sir Theodore Cook, member of the British Olympic council, and others, not an example of bad sportsmanship or ill feeling resulted from the present Olympic games or at Antwerp.

"These contests," says the letter, "were run in a spirit of fairness and good sportsmanship equal to the highest standards of British tradition."

Miss Bleibtrey Sets 3 Records In Olympic Swims

American Girl Has Established New Mark in Every Start at Antwerp Thus Far.

By Joseph W. Grigg.

(Copyright, 1920.)

ANTWERP, Aug. 27.—Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, New York's trudgeon stroke wonder, made it three records in three starts in the Olympic swimming events yesterday despite a raw wind and frigid water. Not content with successive world's records in her heats and the final in the 100-metre event, she came out for her heat in the 300-metre free-style race, yesterday and, apparently just loafing up to the finish, went under the former Olympic figures for the distance by 1 3-5 seconds.

And once again it was Fanny Durack, the much-advertised Australian, who held the former record. Fanny covered the distance in 4 minutes 43 seconds at the Stockholm games in 1912. Yesterday, Miss Bleibtrey was caught in 4 minutes 41 2-5 seconds. With the final heat impending, and all that it means in the way of closer competition, it is regarded as a foregone conclusion that she will pare her present figures down by a matter of seconds.

The performance came as a climax to a day of consistent victory on the part of the American swimmers, who have been carrying everything before them. In addition to Miss Bleibtrey, Americans came home first in two other heats of the 300-metres, with the victories of Miss Eleanor Uhl of Philadelphia and Miss Margaret Woodbridge of Detroit; while Mrs. Frances Cowells Schroth of San Francisco also qualified with a second place in one of the heats.

In addition, the United States will send four men into the finals of the send four men into the final of the 200-metre breaststroke and three into the semifinals of the diving trials, as the result of yesterday's events.

English Polo Team Beats U. S.

The only setback of the day came in the water polo event, where England, thanks to its concentration on teamwork, disposed of the Americans by a score of 7 to 2. The latter had far and away the fastest swimming combination in the event, but teamwork carried the day.

The 400-metre swim brought Ludly Langer of Los Angeles into prominence for the first time during the games. Langer, swimming with that drive that has proven so invincible in the past, won his heat under wraps, while Norman Ross of the Illinois A. C. and W. W. Harris Jr. of Honolulu were equally successful in their trials. The fourth American to qualify was F. K. Kahele of the Navy, who scored a second in the heat won by Vernot, the Canadian.

Again in the 200-metre breaststroke trials the Americans came through with a vengeance, M. J. McDermott of the navy and J. Powell of Oakland, Cal., their sole entrants, reaching the final.

L. E. Keuhn of the Multnomah A. C., Portland, won the first trial in the springboard diving competition, with L. J. Balbach of the New York A. C. second. Blomgren of Sweden won the second heat, but C. Pingston of the Olympic Club, San Francisco, came in for a second and a place in the final.

U. S. Wrestlers Fare Well.

Save for the entries in the lightweights class, the American catch-as-catch-can wrestlers had a big day. C. D. Ackerly of Cornell University advanced to the semifinals of the featherweight class by disposing of Dialetes of Greece and Barathou of France, while S. N. Gersen of the University of Pennsylvania, another featherweight, advanced over the prostrate bodies of Makinson of England and Kaiser of Switzerland.

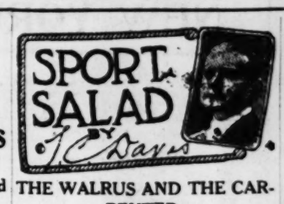

McDonald, the American middleweight, also survived the trials by downing Lophonen of Canada, while in the light-heavyweight division, Walter Maurer of Chicago overcame L. Ladrue of France and Lieut. J. R. Redmond of the navy defeated Wilson of England. In the heavyweight class, N. Pendleton of the N. Y. A. C. defeated Salida of Finland and E. J. Meyer of Chicago won from Mason of England.

In all only two Americans were eliminated during the day and both were lightweights. The first to fall was George Metropules of Gary, Ind., who lost to Svensen of Sweden, and shortly afterward J. Shimmon of N. Y. A. C. was defeated by Antilla of Finland.

The Athletics won their second game from the Indians, 3—2, with Keefe pitching.

Ty Cobb had four hits in nine attempts in the twinbill with the Nationals.

"THE time has come," the Walrus said,
"When something must be done
To stop these pesky profiteers,
And put them on the run.
The Government has promised much
But hasn't sentenced one."

"You're right," replied the Carpenter,
"I glory in your spunk;
Those threats to get the profiteers
Are redolent of punk,
For most of it is camouflage
And all of it is bunk."

"Do you suppose," the Walrus said,
"If Pinkerton were here.
And dragged the country with a net,
He'd land a profiteer?"
"I doubt it," said the Carpenter,
And dropped a bitter tear.

WHITHER?

The Giants licked North on Wednesday and the Red Sox trimmed Sothoron on Thursday. Whither are we drifting?

AMERICANS FINISH ONE, TWO, THREE IN OLYMPIC FANCY DIVING EVENT

ANTWERP, Aug. 27.—Americas won the first three places in the springboard diving finals of the Olympic games today. Le Kuehn, Multnomah A. C., Portland, first; C. Pinkston, Olympic Club, San Francisco, second, and L. J. Balbach, New York A. C., third.

In all only two Americans were eliminated during the day and both were lightweights. The first to fall was George Metropules of Gary, Ind., who lost to Svensen of Sweden, and shortly afterward J. Shimmon of N. Y. A. C. was defeated by Antilla of Finland.

Hubbell, a former Giant, shut out the Reds, 7—0, with four hits.

Dempsey Displays Amazing Speed in Tilt With Farrell

Heavyweight Champion Moves Like a Bantam in Tuning-Up Bout at Camp.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Aug. 27.—Folks sat with bulging optics yesterday as they observed Jack Dempsey uncork speed that was astonishing for a heavyweight. He had the fast stuff to burn, both in the feet and hands, moving around as rapidly in his boxing as did Johnny Couion in his bantam weight prime.

The feature attraction of the day in the camps of the rival heavyweights was the Dempsey performance with Marty Farrell, the California middleweight, who, Jack Kearns predicts, will be the next boss of the 158-pound division. Marty got in Wednesday night, had not had a glove on for over a month, and was fagged after the long train jaunt from the coast. Still he made an excellent showing, and a favorable impression. Kearns studied his work closely, and then remarked that fellows like Mike O'Dowd and Johnny Wilson would be "duck soup" for Marty.

It was with Farrell that Dempsey displayed his lightning-like movements. Marty is a fast stepper, prancing in and out rapidly; but he could not outdance the fox-trotting master of the heavyweights. Dempsey enjoyed this sort of work, ducking and dodging around, and showed that he is ready to go as fast a clip as Billy Miske can manage to carry him on Labor day afternoon, in this town.

Dempsey Tires His Partner.

Dempsey worked in light gym togs instead of the heavy black suit he has been wearing. He has a slight cold that is bothering his breathing, but thinks he will shake it off in a day or so. Jack boxed six rounds, two with Farrell, two with Panama Joe Gans and two with Bill Tate. Panama has sore ribs from Dempsey's body smacking, but Jack did not let up on him. Joe took another good punching yesterday afternoon and did plenty of running to keep away from the champ's flying and battering fists.

Tate was hanging on at the finish. Dempsey jabbing him from his puzzling crouch with some solid left hooks. Bill can't tell where that left is coming from. It's like a whip, and when Tate trys the body block Jack shoots it high, and vice versa. It is quite disconcerting for Mr. Tate.

Dempsey said he weighed 190 today, six pounds under the weight Miske announced for himself an hour earlier.

Miske is so full of "pep" that Manager Reddy is having a tough time holding him back.

Homer Smith Aids Miske.

Miske boxed four rounds with Jack Heinen and a Benton Harbor heavy named Davis. They called the latter "One Round" Davis, because that was as long as he lasted. Homer Smith will be on the job with Miske, today, and should give the husky challenger some beneficial workouts. Homer was knocked out by Dempsey once in a round at Racine and may be able to tell Miske something about the power of Jack's sleep producer.

Promoter Fitzsimmons said today that his arena would hold 28,000 persons on the holiday, and that if it is filled the receipts will notch the $200,000 mark.

INDUSTRIAL STOCKS LOWER WITH CALL MONEY AT 10 PCT.

Occasional Bidding Varies Activities After Several Considerable Declines.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"The only incident of any importance in today's financial markets was the rise in call money rates on the Stock Exchange to 10 per cent, a higher rate than any thus far touched this month. In this week of last August the rate did not go above 6 per cent, and that was also the highest figure of September. In general, the industrial stocks went lower today; there were three or four considerable declines, but occasional bidding up of prices in the same group of stocks varied the proceedings. It was a market made up merely of alternate advances and retreats by various 'pools' of professional speculators. The railway shares moved irregularly, pretty much losing their recent initiative.

"Wall street apparently did not know whether to be gratified or disappointed at the Reserve Board governor's public statement on the credit situation. A little while ago a 'rumor' circulated that reserve bank rates would be advanced. At one time this week there was random talk of a coming reduction in them. There was no basis for either, and Harding's remarks for the Reserve Board simply say what all observant financiers know already, that 'further expansion of undue bank credits' has been restrained and the 'headlong resort to credit operations checked,' is manifestly true. That the Reserve Board itself 'is too far removed from the actual detailed situation' to undertake of itself to say what credits are 'essential' and what are not, has always been evident.

Reserve Board Statement.

"What the Board has accomplished in the way of stopping absorption of credit into speculative undertakings it has done through using its moral pressure on the banks; a very effective means of producing results in maters of this sort. But as to whether the need of continuous curtailment is past, and whether recent apprehensions of an extremely stringent money market this autumn are to be realized or not, the Governor of the Reserve Board does not say. He is entirely wise in making no such prediction; first because it would be injudicious at this moment to stimulate either apprehensions regarding the autumn situation or belief that the necessity for great caution is no longer urgent, but second, because not even the head of the Federal Reserve can yet know exactly what the course of events will be.

Sterling Weaker.

"Having recovered something over 6 cents between Tuesday and yesterday, sterling exchange turned weak again today under rather heavy selling and lost a cent or more. Other exchanges were irregular. The rate on Holland recovered from its low record figures, sales of American securities from Amsterdam being reported as a stabilizing influence.

"Silver bullion was slightly lower, both at London and New York.

Fluctuation in Exports.

"Our total exports in July, as given out at Washington on Tuesday, increased $23,000,000 over June and $86,000,000 over July, 1919. Today's separate report on export of agricultural commodities shows that in this class of goods our July shipments ran $32,000,000 above the preceding month, but were nearly $23,000,000 below July of a year ago. The inference is that our export of manufactures and general merchandise last month was about the same as in June and considerably larger than last year. This makes the reasoning as to the effect of the changing foreign situation on our trade even more perplexing a problem. How curiously our trade in farm products fluctuates in these days may be seen from the fact that while last month's cotton exports decreased $45,800,000 from 1919 and meat exports $71,000,000, shipments of breadstuffs increased $67,000,000 and of mineral oil $28,000,000; of wheat we sent out in quantity nearly twice as much as in June and more than four times as much as in July, 1919. Bradstreet's figures on wheat and flour exports this week show them to be the second largest of any week thus far in 1920. This August, our export is about 11,000,000 bushels ahead of 1919 and 24,000,000 ahead of 1918."

Foreign Exchange and Domestic Money

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The foreign exchange market was variable and irregular again today, with rates on some European centers advancing, while others declined. There was a strong tone to sterling during the forenoon, but the market was under pressure in the late afternoon, when demand fell from $3.57⅞ to $3.55¾, and exchange on Holland, which sold at the low record of 31⅞ for guilders checks two days ago, was traded in on a large scale, advancing to 32⅛, the buying being against heavy sales of bonds in this market for Holland account. Reports about a new loan were effective in holding French exchange firm.

FIRM TONE, BUT SMALL SALES IN CURB MARKET

Continued Activity in Some Oils and Mining Group Picks Up.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Although the demand for stocks on the Broad street Curb was less vigorous and recessions occurred after advances, the tone was firm and there was an absence of supply of actual stock, nearly all the offerings when reactions occurred coming from a speculative element that devoted its efforts wholly to depressing prices. In spite of that falling off in activity, however, there were many strong spots and some interesting features among them being the accumulation of Car Light & Power by interests identified with the managements of the company in connection with arrangements to entirely change the character of the company's business. As soon as practicable it will devote its business efforts to the expansion of the work of the New York Clothel Refrigerating Co., of which it holds control.

North American Pulp was another feature, the block of stock which had been thrown on the market a couple of weeks ago having been entirely absorbed, and it made further progress toward the high level established on the active trading which carried its price above seven a short time ago.

A little interest was attached to the fact that a sale of one share of Stutz Motors was made today at 220.

There was continued activity also in the Homer field stocks, Simms Petroleum maintaining its recent advance fairly well, although it reacted after a strong opening; and White Oil, which has been in steady demand, was a strong feature in the early trading when it moved up a point. The announcement of the plan for the consolidation of International Petroleum and Tropical Oil which was made at the beginning of the week, was apparently without influence as a market factor.

Mining stocks were active and showed a better tone. Boston & Montana developed strength again after yesterday's reaction.

Wall Street News and Comment
—SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Prices went higher in the first hour this morning and a good part of the list went through, and, in some cases, quite well above, the high prices of the first violent rally on Tuesday last. This advance was sufficient to fully realize the expectations of those who, while recognizing the improvement in the credit situation and believing that the low prices for stocks were definitely seen in the early part of last week, do not anticipate more than a narrow trading market for some time to come. It is the characteristic of a market in a trading position to swing back and forth within a range of a few points and at the high prices reached this morning the share list was as high as it could be for one of these upturns. The Street, which always prefers an outside to an inside reason, ascribed the decline to the fact that the call money renewal rate was raised to eight per cent from the seven per cent figure at which it has been standing for the last fortnight. The traders started in to sell as soon as the eight per cent quotation became known, but there was very little doubt also that the market would have taken the same course it did even had money remained stationary. It was well understood that the money market would work closer during the days before the September interest payments, especially as the Government has been drawing down its balances with the banks.

At the opening, the leaders in the industrial division were the Mexican oils, Steel common, Industrial Alcohol and the tobaccos. The fact that Steel common is to sell the quarterly dividend on Monday, influenced considerable short covering and this demand was not appeased until the stock was selling above 91. Industrial Alcohol, Retail Stores, Tobacco Products and American Sumatra all ran up very easily, indicating comparatively small offerings even at prices well above the recently prevailing level. The upward movement kept on in railway issues, and bonds as well as stocks. When the reaction set in toward the end of the morning it was the motor stocks which took the lead. Pierce-Arrow went through its previous low for the year under heavy selling. Studebaker and Chandler were also very weak. Elsewhere Mexican Petroleum, Baldwin Locomotive, Stromberg, Replogle and other of the more active issues fell off rather sharply.

There was also conspicuous weakness in one or two of the sugars, notably Cuban Cane, but outside of these and of the motors and related groups, there was no evidence of fresh liquidation. The selling was for speculative profit-taking, or professional short selling on the idea that the market was due for a reaction after the rise yesterday and this morning.

Railroad stocks showed much resistance to the downward tendency in the industrial list. Midway through the afternoon they led a moderate rally and at this time Union Pacific, New York Central, Atchison and one or two others reached their best prices of the day. But this recovery was checked by the running up of the money rate to 10 per cent and by the continued weakness in the motors and sugars.

Erie.

The sudden move in Erie issues in yesterday's market was still a live subject of discussion this morning. It was well understood why the Erie bonds should move up, because their position has been very much improved as the result of the rate increase. But all calculations agree that Erie stocks will benefit much less than the average on account of the enormous capital and bonded debt of the company. It is estimated that even under the new rate schedules Erie common will earn less than one-half of one per cent. The Street reasoned accordingly that there must be some other explanation for the buying in Erie stocks. No doubt quite a bit of the buying yesterday and this morning was a pure speculation based on the fact that the Eries used to be a favorite speculative issue at very favorable prices, and at present prices they at least hold out the assurance that they are not likely to go down. One big trader in a local brokerage office was seen to buy this morning 5000 shares of Erie common and when asked the reason, said that he remembered when he used to be dealing in the stock at 45 and he did not see why he should not be buying it now at 14.

The Bond Market.

The feature in today's bond market was the remarkable rise in local traction securities. Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, which not long ago sold at 41½, today got up above 47, at which figure they were up nearly 3 points from yesterday's close. The Interborough-Metropolitan 4½s had a similar jump from 12½ to 16. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit 7s, which yesterday left off at 38¼, sold at 41½. There was no outside explanation for this upturn and the fact that all these bonds came down considerably in the latter part of the day suggested that the early rise had been simply the running in of a short interest. It is known that in the Interborough Rapid Transit 5s, particularly, a great deal of short selling has been going on, based on the expectation that the next coupon, due Jan. 1, 1921, would be omitted. It looked as if the rise yesterday and today in these bonds was a covering movement and that the advance in the other tractions was merely sympathetic.

In the Government division, Japanese issues were the favored ones. These bonds had been strong yesterday, but they gained even more ground today, with the exception of the second 4½s, which did not do as well as the others. Elsewhere the Government list was substantially unchanged. There was no let-up in the demand for the rails. Seaboard Air Line adjustments got up close to 40, at which figure they were up over 7 points on the week. The St. Louis & San Francisco income 6s made a further gain at 54. Baltimore & Ohio and Erie issues were not much changed, but there was an insistent absorption of investment bonds of the type of the Southern Pacific collaterals, Central Pacific and the St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien A's, all of which sold at higher prices than at any time during the current upward movement.

Baltimore & Ohio.

Baltimore & Ohio fooled the trading element in the market today. It had acted rather heavy yesterday while other rails were strong. People said that there was a lot for sale around 39½ to 39⅞ and predicted that the buying power would prove inadequate to wade through this supply. There was much surprise on the part of these observers, accordingly, when Baltimore & Ohio suddenly began to come out on the tape at 40 and then ran up across this figure. It meant that the stock had got into new high ground and the chart readers and the tape readers generally admitted that, this having happened, there was nothing to go by in judging where the upward would now halt. The point was again made that Baltimore common under the increased rates will earn as much as it did when it paid 4 and 5 per cent dividends.

Reading.

It has been pointed out that Reading last year carried 12,000,000 tons of coal to tidewater at an average rate of $1.90 a ton. The increase in rates adds fully 75 cents a ton to the carrying charge, which means a gain in revenue of over $9,000,000 for the road from this one source alone. It is further understood that in comparatively recent years the Reading Railroad has paid as much as 16 2-3 per cent dividends to the Reading Co. With the advanced rates it will have a large amount of surplus revenue after the division with the Government of a surplus of 6 per cent on valuation.

Wool Market Unchanged.

BOSTON, Aug. 27.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The demand for wool continues of small proportions, and values, especially for the finer grades, are not yet on a settled basis. The market has been cheered somewhat by the advices from the London colonial auctions. The foreign primary markets are unchanged.

"The goods market is without material change and the new clip movement shows no new features."

Prices Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Aug. 27.—Prices were firm on the Bourse today. Three per cent rentes, 56f 40c. Exchange on London, 51f 29c. Five per cent loan, 87f 50c. The dollar was quoted at 14f 25c.

WHEAT RULES STRONG IN ST. LOUIS MARKET

The grain market closed higher on the Merchants' Exchange today. Wheat featured the trade. Covering by shorts in December on good export situation helped to lift prices. Cash wheat here was irregular. Corn and oats followed wheat.

The early strength of the entire market was credited to the strong undertone of wheat futures which in the first half of forenoon got up 4½ to 5c over last night's close. Corn and oats prices then firmed and advanced moderately.

A New York dispatch said that the sale of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to seaboard over night was reported. The car situation in the Southwest was reported still acute. Difficulty was said to be experienced in buying wheat in the country and some with large export sales to fill were reported uneasy. While Minneapolis early reported cash wheat slow to 5c lower, Chicago reported prices up 3 to 5 cents.

Corn was said to be in need of month of warm weather in Iowa but Kansas crop conditions were reported favorable. Pit offerings today were light. Oats followed the trend of corn.

STRENGTH OF WHEAT FEATURE OF TRADE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Buying of December wheat, credited to covering shorts for leading New York cotton traders, was responsible today for an upturn of nearly 6 cents from yesterday's close. At the top December showed 13¾c above the inside figure of Monday.

The news was rather bullish, there being an absence of pressure from cash grain and premiums here and in the Southwest were well maintained. No. 1 grades here selling at 25c over December. One New York house was reported to have sold 1,000,000 bushels for export over night and France has diverted four cargoes to England and is expected to replace them elsewhere.

Country offerings are light and the disposition on the part of the producer to hold for higher prices is becoming more pronounced in all sections. Canadian wheats were firmer. Export bids at the gulf advanced 1c over night, which was reflected in an upturn of a like amount in bids to the country. A fair amount of spot grain sold at New York at $2.83 per bushel, f. o. b. Closing trades were 2¼c to 3c higher.

Corn continues to act heavy. In the face of the sharp upturn in wheat, December has advanced only 3¾c from the inside figures on the crop, and the low point today was within 1c of the bottom of last Monday. The market quickly becomes oversold or overbought and the local element are disposed to follow any good buying or selling. Country offerings to arrive are increasing, with No. 2 yellow offered at 7c over September for 30-day shipment, or 18c under prevailing premiums. Closing trades were ⅜c to ¾c up.

Oats followed corn, but showed a firmer undertone. Premiums were a trifle firmer at 4c to 5c over September for No. 2 white on old billing, with new about 3c under. Indiana points reported considerable oats bought from farmers. Final trades were at net gains of ¼c to ½c.

Brokers who generally act for Swift were fair buyers of lard and prices averaged higher, but the range for the day was not large. Pork closed 20c to 35c, lard 5c to 25c and short ribs 25c to 27½c higher. Strength in hogs and grains was a factor.

HOG RECEIPTS LIGHT AND PRICES ARE UP

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Aug. 27.—Today's estimated receipts: Cattle and calves, 1800; hogs, 4000; sheep, 1000; horses and mules, 100.

CATTLE—There was a light offering of cattle in the yards Friday and a strong market prevailed in most departments. No heavy steers of consequence were received and there was a meager showing of butcher stock. Buyers cleared supplied at an early hour. Veal calves again advanced gaining $1 over previous day. A top of $2.75 was reached today and market is $2.75 higher than this day a week ago.

HOGS—It was another excited market in the swine division, with prices higher from the opening. Run was light and supply much below requirements of the buyers. Market unevenly higher, with advance ranging from 25c to 50c per cwt.; trim lights and butcher weights again showing most of the improvement. Heavies, however, moved better than at any time this week. Early top was $15, but before noon St. Louis butchers were up to $16.25 for full carloads of choice hogs. Pigs 100 pounds and up were active and shared in the day's full advance. Packer sows and sows were strong to higher, with sales at a range of $12.50 to $13.50 mostly. Bulk of hogs sold early.

SHEEP—Sheep sold on a steady basis but lambs were again higher, the advance being from 25c, bringing the best lambs up to $15.75. Most of the sheep went at $7 to killers and bucks at $5.

HORSES—Supply of horses in the commission department today was of small importance and no change in the market was recorded. Selling has been fairly active the current week and values are some stronger.

MULES—There was a comparatively light offering of mules on commission and sales averaged no better than steady with Thursday. Demand is not very large at the present time.

NEW YORK COTTON IS STEADIER ON CROP COMPLAINTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Private and August crop reports showing considerable more than expected deterioration during the month led to more active buying in the cotton market today. There was not much sign of a revival in the demand from the trade itself, but covering was in volume and there may have been some fresh speculative buying on a belief that recent declines have been partly the result of an over-estimate of crop prospects. Liverpool was better than due, being influenced by the private condition figures and the market here opened at an advance of 35 to 40 points, with active months selling 62 to 78 points net higher before the end of the first hour. This made a recovery of between 2 and 3 cents per pound from the low records of Tuesday morning, which was sufficient to attract realizing by recent buyers for a reaction and renewed pressure from some of the more determined bears. Irregularity developed in consequence, but the bullish showing of the private crop reports was emphasized by the weather map indicating general and almost totally unexpected rains in almost all sections of the belt.

Cotton futures closed firm: October, 28.33c; December, 26.58c; January, 26.00c; March, 25.75c; May, 25.25c.

How to Lose Your Tan, Freckles or Wrinkles

A day's motoring, an afternoon on the tennis court or golf links, a sunbath on the beach or exposure on a water trip, often brings on a deep tan or vivid crimson or, more perplexing still, a vigorous crop of freckles. A very necessary thing then is mercolized wax, which removes tan, redness or freckles quite easily. It literally peels off the affected skin—just a little at a time, so there's no hurt or inconvenience. As the skin comes off in almost invisible flaky particles, no trace of the treatment is shown. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and use this nightly as you would cold cream, washing it off mornings. In a week or so you will have an entirely new skin, beautifully clear, transparent and of a most delicate whiteness.

Wrinkles, so apt to form at this season, may be easily and quickly removed by bathing the face in a solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. This is not only a valuable astringent, but has a beneficial tonic effect also.

CAT HIKES 67 MILES BACK HOME

"Red," Left on Farm, Wears Claws Off Finding Master.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMFIELD, N. J., Aug. 27.—"Red," Bloomfield's tom cat pedestrian, today curled up on a bag of bran and purred contentedly while Lawrence Blamey, his owner, proprieto rof a feed store, patiently applied soothing salve to his paws. "Red's" claws were worn down to the quick by a hike of 67 miles from a farm, which Mr. Blamey sold a year ago. Thinking his cat would prefer field mice to those of the feed store variety, Blamey left "Red" on the farm, but yesterday the exhausted feline succeeded in finding the new home of his master.

For a Broader Basis of Ownership

Time has confirmed the judgment of the men who, four years ago, determined to broaden the basis of Union Electric ownership in the city and district which this Company serves.

They believed a considerable part of the growth of the business could be financed here at home.

They believed the acquisition of a large number of home partners would stimulate the growth of the business.

They believed thousands of men and women in this community—folks of small or moderate incomes—would welcome an opportunity to share the State-regulated profits of St. Louis' central electric light, heat and power industry.

It has worked out that way. Nearly 4000 home investors now own or are acquiring on installments more than 28,000 shares of our 7% preferred stock. They are drawing cash dividends of $50,000 every three months. Most of them take an active interest in promoting the growth of the Company's business. No small part of the very large gains in electric service and merchandising sales during the past three years are traceable to the co-operation of our St. Louis district shareholders.

We have made no effort, and shall make none, to sell our 7% preferred stock in large blocks to rich investors. A few large investors hold considerable blocks of the stock, bought on their own initiative, for its solid value. But our aim was and is to get a very large number of small home shareholders, men and women glad to earn 7% on their savings with entire safety for their principal.

The price is $100 per share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan under which buyers draw 5 per cent interest on installment payments and can withdraw all payments, with interest, any time before the last payment is made. Hundreds of men and women are each month investing their savings in this way. They get 5 per cent interest on their savings up to the day they pay for their shares; after that they begin drawing 7% dividends.

SALES OFFICES: Room 201 Union Electric Building, 12th and Locust streets, St. Louis, and Union Electric's offices in St. Charles, St. Louis, Franklin, Jefferson and Perry Counties.

MAIL ORDERS: Send bank draft, certified check, postoffice or express money order with mail orders. Prompt delivery of shares will be made by registered mail.

We shall be glad to send you detailed information about the Company and its business if you will send us your name and address on the dotted lines just below.

GASTRONOMIC VIRTUE

Thackeray said of the man who boasts that whatever he eats is the same to him:

"He brags about a personal defect—the wretch—and not about a virtue."

Obviously, then, to enjoy only pure, wholesome, properly cooked food is a gastronomic virtue—

A virtue to which those who dine at CHILDS may lay indisputable claim.

CHILDS vegetable dinner—a pleasing variation in the summer diet.

Drain the cucumbers from the brine, bring the brine to the boiling-point, pour over the cucumbers, and again let stand 3 days; repeat. Drain, wipe the cucumbers, and pour over them one gallon boiling water in which one tablespoon of alum has been dissolved. Let stand six hours, then drain from the alum water. Cook the cucumbers 10 minutes, a few at a time in one-fourth of the following mixture heated to the boiling-point and boiled 10 minutes: 1 gallon vinegar; 4 red peppers; 2 sticks cinnamon; 2 tablespoons allspice berries; 2 tablespoons cloves. Strain the remaining liquor over the pickles, which have been put in a stone jar.

INFORMATION.—Both the skunk and the polecat are carnivore. The polecat is one of a certain musteline weasel-like carnivores of the genus Putorius. The European polecat is dark brown and black below, with dark brown and white markings on the face, and is noted for its fetid odor when irritated or alarmed. The American polecat, or black-footed ferret, the Siberian, and the mottled polecat of eastern Europe and western Asia are other species. The skunk is an American mephitine mustoid carnivore of stout form, with bushy tail, and very large glands that secrete a liquid of very offensive odor which can be ejected at will. The common skunk ranges from Hudson Bay to Guatemala, and is usually black, with dorsal stripes tip of tail and nuchal patch white. It is about the size of a domestic cat, for which it is sometimes mistaken at first sight. Skunks are nocturnal and burrowing, and prey largely on insects, small reptiles and mammals. In the United States the fur when dressed is called Alaska sable. The little striped and spotted skunks of the western and southern United States are smaller relatives of the genus Spilogale.

V. A. M.—There is probably no way to obtain the money before the time specified in the will. You might consult a lawyer, however.

AN EX-SOLDIER FROM MO.—If you are not at fault yourself we think that you have good grounds for a divorce, and can probably get the custody of the children.

ANXIETY.—From the facts you state it does not appear that you have been injured or that your interests have suffered. However, if you think otherwise, you should consult a lawyer.

WORRIED SICK.—If there was an actual, mutual marital agreement, preceding the living together, there was a common law marriage, otherwise not. This means that if both parties expressly agreed to become man and wife, and have lived together as such, then, and then only, was there a common law marriage. If this has been done, they will need to be divorced before they can remarry.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

YOURS TRULY.—Epsom salts in solution has been recommended, applied hot, for reducing fleshy limbs. Steaming or continuous hot applications may also be tried, with massage.

BALSAM.—The balsam apple, in whisky is used internally for diseases of the air passages, and also locally for wounds, sores, etc. While whisky is not generally obtainable at this time, physicians are allowed to prescribe it for proper purposes, and no doubt it could be so obtained for this purpose from a physician. We know of no substitute for the whisky if it is intended to be taken internally, but for local use 95 per cent denatured (not wood) alcohol could be used or it could be used in the form of an ointment. Denatured, as well as wood alcohol, is poisonous if taken internally.

X.—A bacterial vaccine is a preparation of killed bacteria, suspended in normal salt solution, which is injected for the purpose of raising the opsonic index of patients suffering from infection by that organism. Opsonic index means the resisting power of the blood against bacilli, as compared to the normal. Opsonin refers to that constituent of the blood serum of a normal animal which renders bacilli prone to be absorbed by the phagocytes, cells in the blood that destroy microorganisms by enveloping and absorbing them. The vaccine you mention is as good as any on the market.

DOWNWARD TENDENCY IN PRICES REPORTED

All Commodities Except Food Lower, Federal Reserve Board Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Marked indications that living costs apparently have started on their long-awaited fall was said by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday to be contained in its latest reports. An "important downward tendency" in prices of all commodities excepting food is evidenced in all parts of the country, the board stated, adding a sharp reduction in the price of raw products even forecast lower food prices.

The board said there had been a "pronounced checking" of speculation and definite although slight increase in general efficiency and an equally positive, yet limited curtailment of extravagant expenditure and unnecessary borrowing." There has been also a "sustained tendency" toward the paying off of loans secured by Government and other bonds and securities.

The board's reports reveal that within two months the price changes have been marked in all basic raw products, but have been most noticeable in wool, silk and leather. These reductions are said to have been accompanied by a corresponding drop of prices in the retail field on clothing and shoe and other staples.

Situation in Shoes.

"The downward tendency of prices," the board said, "is the outcome of a complex of factors. In wool, termination of Government control in various parts of the world and the steady marketing of the raw supplies held by the United States has had an important effect."

A "depressed situation" was said to exist in the leather and shoe industry. Shoe manufacturers are slow in placing orders with leather dealers with the result that prices on raw material have suffered a heavy decline. The dull season of late summer was described as "hedging earlier and lasting longer." Manufacturers, however, anticipate a heavy fall business, but this is not expected by business experts to increase the level of prices.

"Large stocks of leather and hides which had accumulated," the board asserted, "coupled with a falling off in consumption and demand for leather products resulting directly from the very high retail prices being charged are currently regarded as primarily responsible for the drop in leather prices."

Silk and Cotton Lower.

The break in the silk market and fall of retail prices was attributed to speculative activity in Japan, where heavy losses were suffered by dealers as a result of the refusal of Americans to buy at exorbitant prices. Financial difficulties which developed in Japan last spring also are aiding in forcing a price reduction.

Lower prices on cotton and cotton products were forecast because of the expected heavy crop combined with a slowing up of demand.

Mills were said to be approaching completion of orders. A few new orders are being placed, partly because of the lateness of the season and because jobbers and retailers confidently hope for a prevailing lower level of prices when sales on cotton goods reopen next spring.

The board foresees a generally higher efficiency by labor in industrial production, and an improved transportation service. This combination is believed to mean that depleted stocks soon would be restored to normal.

SUES FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

A damage suit on a contract involving the proposed sale of apartments at 6017 Etzel avenue was filed yesterday by Ben Brasloff against Harry M. Boeckmann and Charles Bierman of 2715 Franklin avenue.

The petition sets forth that on May 25 last the defendants contracted to sell the apartments to the plaintiff for $25,000, but they have failed to carry out the contract and deliver the deed. In the meantime, according to the plaintiff, the property has advanced in value to $35,000, and he sues for $10,000 damages.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

St. Louis and Athletics.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Though personally I am absolutely ignorant as far as athletics and athletic games are concerned, I have been reading with intense interest the accounts of the Olympic games now being held in Antwerp. It has caused me much pride to read that our American boys are showing up in peace as they did in war, victoriously. However, with this pride which I feel as an American comes a slight shame which I find myself feeling as a St. Louisan. The papers daily show that athletes competing in the games for America are representatives of the Los Angeles A. C., Chicago A. C., the New York A. C. or the San Francisco A. C. or some other athletic club, always representative of some city. Where are the St. Louis boys? Have we no athletes in our city who are good enough to compete with their fellow Americans against the athletes of Europe? In St. Louis we have the splendid Missouri Athletic Club, which I presume is the representative organization for fostering athletic sports in St. Louis, but in reading over the newspaper articles about the Olympics I do not remember having seen one instance where an athlete is quoted as being of the Missouri A. A. What is the reason for this? Cannot our local boys assist the Missouri Athletic Club in making St. Louis like other large cities, sending out a team of red-blooded, vigorous young men? Surely we have boys that are just as well trained and physically fit as any that are abroad, but still we have no representatives, and while the New York A. C. and the Chicago A. C. and all the other A. C.'s are winning laurels abroad we must sit back and be proud of the fact that we are Americans, and at the same time almost wish that we lived in New York or in Chicago and could read in our papers about feats of our athletes. Why don't our boys assist the M. A. A., and is there a possibility of their showing up at the next Olympic?

FEMININE FAN.

Alias Ponzi.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Saturday evening about 11:30 o'clock I was walking through Fairground Park and about 75 yards from the north terminus of the Jefferson car line. A man in the uniform of the Park Department, wearing a star and carrying a nightstick approached me and said: "You know it's near midnight?" I said "Yes." He said, shining a flashlight at me, "Have you money for bond?" I thought I was wanted probably for suspicion, etc. I never even suspected a holdup and he took $5 from me. I reported this to the police immediately, and merely want other people to beware of a man disguised as a park watchman.

JAMES MURRAY.

Illinois Miners' Union.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reading over the People's Column of your valuable paper I note a letter of Aug. 9, under caption "The Miners' Union," and wish to make a few comments, if you will allow me, on the same. In the first place he says that he was familiar with the methods used in the Ziegler or Leiter mine experience; also that he was familiar with the methods used in the strikes by the miners in Virden, Pana and Carterville. I do not think that the writer does know what he is talking about or else he would not express himself the way he did. I have been a member of the Illinois United Mine Workers since its inception and have been an officer of local unions almost continuous for 23 years and know what hardships and endurance the miners that were involved in those strikes went through, and shared the victories with those men and wish to state that if the men involved did not believe that it was the only salvation to gain a livelihood by upholding their organization there would not be a grand monument standing in the cemetery at Mount Olive in honor of the boys who gave their life's blood so that the banner of the United Mine Workers could float over the great and glorious State of Illinois. The writer states that the miners are afraid of the open shop. I will answer that we, the miners of Illinois, are not afraid of same, but do not approve of the action that is practiced under the open shop method, as we do believe that the firms that want to practice that theory are enemies to the officers of any organization and would victimize them at any time that they saw fit, or at any time any officer would follow out the instructions of the rank and file he would be signing his own death warrant and probably that would be what the writer of that article would want.

Compulsory Voting.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Czecho-Slovakia has adopted compulsory voting and put it in force. It ought to require no argument that the principal cause of bad officials and bad government is the indifference of a majority of the qualified voters, especially at the primaries. Any plan promising to remedy this basic evil deserves consideration and trial. "JEFF MACKAY."

THE PURCHASING FUND.

In support of his charges that the Republican campaign management was undertaking to raise a fund of $15,000,000 "in a conspiracy to buy the presidency," Gov. Cox, in his Pittsburg speech, offered as proof the party plans and specifications as reported in the "Republican Bulletin," the official publication, so to speak, of the Grand Headquarters of Treasurer Upham of the Republican National Committee, together with reports from agents in the field, not ineptly designated as "money diggers."

The quota method used so successfully in the Liberty Bond campaigns was adopted by the Republican board of fiscal strategy. By a special order, allotments assigned to 51 cities in 27 states aggregated $8,500,000. It is Mr. Cox's contention that if such an amount were to be raised from a comparatively few select locations, the drumming of the entire country might logically be presumed to yield the grand objective of $15,000,000 specified in the charge. By way of proof he quotes copiously from the enthusiastic reports from the outlying dependencies.

Maine, Michigan, Wisconsin, Florida, Tennessee, Colorado, Arizona and South Dakota—from all of those far provinces, as contrasted with the chosen 51 cities, most flattering assurances have poured into the Upham G. H. Q. at Chicago. Sometimes those messages told of prospects, but occasionally they proudly announced they had already gone "over the top."

Special mention is conferred upon Arkansas, Georgia and North Carolina, which, wholly omitted from the preferred list, have already gone beyond expectations. The fine response of this traditionally "enemy country," as regards the Republican party, is joyfully acclaimed and pointed out as an example and inspiration to friendly lands.

Such is the substance of Mr. Cox's proof, taken almost entirely from the official publication and the purported correspondence of the headquarters of the treasurer of the Republican National Committee. Moreover, the subscription plans of the national organization cover only the financing of the Republican national campaign, apparently. Such construction at least is warranted from the Bulletin instruction that State and county organizations are "not to be disturbed or retarded in their activities." The practical politician would certainly assume from such advice that the blue sky alone was the subscription limit.

The wording of Mr. Cox's charge was not altogether happy, but the result of his disclosures will be good. That the Republican treasurer expected to have ample money for conducting the campaign seems clearly to be established. It is likely that, as a result of the disclosure, there will be a revision downward of the Republican campaign committee's assessments and expenditures.

MR. PALMER ALARMS THE COUNTRY.

To consumers, who believe that the peak in prices has already been passed, what could bring greater alarm than the announcement that A. Mitchell Palmer is about to direct the thunders of the Department of Justice against the coal profiteers?

In a speech in St. Louis on Oct. 2 last Mr. Palmer proved that he can tell a profiteer when he sees one. He defined him as a man who "takes advantage of natural conditions to add on profits unconscionably, unreasonably, unjustly." He declared his grim purpose to pursue the varmint to his lair and extirpate him, if Congress would give him further legislation. Congress a few days later gave him exactly what he asked for and Mr. Palmer flamboyantly gave us to understand that the profiteer was already as good as an extinct animal.

Extirpation proceeded at so dazzling a pace that by Dec. 15 a material increase had been recorded in the price of nearly all necessaries. Between Dec. 15 and Jan. 15 the profiteers had given the screw several more twists and living costs increased by 3 per cent in St. Louis and by 2 per cent in the country at large. By the middle of June computations showed that the price of 22 essentials to living had increased by 19 per cent in St. Louis over the almost intolerable costs exacted on the date Crusader Palmer began his hopeful effort, and by a like amount in the country generally.

The connection between Mr. Palmer's furious battle against the profiteers and continuous and burdensome increase, not ameliorative decrease, in prices seems too close to escape the attention of the harassed and stricken consumers. They will not fail to note that the recent fall in sugar and other commodities was absolutely dissociated with any legal measures instituted by Mr. Palmer or anybody else and came about solely because the towering structure erected by the profiteers had toppled from its own weight and insecurity. Will coal go down for the same reason?

What about the sound remedies at law to which that temporary act of rather experimental quality was only supplementary? Could nothing be done with the favorite Palmer weapon of injunction? Have laws against collusive control of markets lost their teeth through disuse? Prices at their present outrageous level could not be maintained a moment beyond the time when concerted support from very many persons was lacking. We saw that in the case of sugar. Every party to such support is a criminal under Federal law.

Is not $8 a ton at the mines for standard coal, lowest merchantable product of the Illinois fields, which sold for $1 three years ago and for $3 or less when Mr. Palmer went profiteer hunting, a sufficient price? Is he trying to send it higher?

AUG. 26 IN POLITICAL EVOLUTION.

If this morning seems as like to yesterday's as any August morning is to another, nevertheless overnight a great but imperceptible change has come about which commands a vital interest from the public thought of today and on which science as well as history will look back most thoughtfully in the future. A direct responsibility for the manner in which they shall govern themselves has come to women since yesterday and on a full parity with the responsibility of men. If it is a change that must exert an important influence on the functioning of government, so it is one that must in time exert an important influence on the vision, the initiative, the powers of observation and comparison, the judgment of women themselves.

Even perfunctory acts attesting the certainty of victory have significance, and Secretary Colby's proclamation, framed in the routine of one day's office duty, acquires interest as the final detail in a long record on which the validity of the nineteenth amendment depends. It fixes Aug. 26 as the end of one era of social and political evolution and the beginning of another. If these social and political evolution eras seem almost as interminable as the vast geological eras preceding the coming of man, they are as indicative of planetary progress.

It may be that the first women in America to help choose a public officer by virtue of the amendment will be those of a St. Louis suburb. On Sept. 7 University City will elect a Mayor. Between now and that date the people of divers other localities will be called to the polls, but to vote a primary ballot. In many of these localities women were already entitled to vote by virtue of State action.

"NEVER AGAIN."

The "Never Again" demonstration staged in front of the ex-Kaiser's palace at Berlin by the broken soldiers, the orphaned childhood and the bereaved motherhood of Germany, was witnessed in solemn silence by a congregation estimated at 40,000. It would be nearer the truth, however, to say that this tragic tableau had for its audience the whole wide world. For the barbarity it renounced and the ideal of peaceful adjustment of international differences which it bespoke embody the hope and purpose of humanity.

On the outskirts of that concourse, guiltily gazing at the Dead Sea waste of their evil philosophy, may be seen the shades of Nietzsche, Von Bernhardi, Treitschke and the inconsolable Hegel, who sold his intellectual birthright "just for a ribbon to wear on his coat." A faithful report must bring back from his embittered exile at Doorn the carpet knight of contemptible memory to behold the fruitage of his murderous and suicidal gospel that glorified war as the noblest enterprise.

And to this grim pageant within the shadow of a cathedral which junkerism had perverted into a Pagan temple the attention of some of our American politicians is imperatively directed. For America had no inconsiderable part in this impressive Berlin drama. America was present in the spiritual hosts of our martyred youth asleep beneath the lilies and crosses of France. America was present, too, in the grief of our gold-starred mothers and in the flotsam of our young manhood washed back on the tides of war.

Those German soldiers have echoed the cry with which our soldiers marched forth to the "war against war." "Never Again" was the pledge on their lips and "Never Again" was the prayer of the homes from which they went. That pledge sealed in blood must be kept and that prayer must be answered. Our politicians who have trifled with this sacred obligation, and are today quibbling about phrases and construction and are hesitant lest we undertake too much, might far better be afraid lest they perfidiously fail the dead and betray the living.

The mutilated German soldiers have offered a conclusive argument for a real League of Nations. Their "Never Again" is a mandate to the world.

MR. BURLESON OVERRULED.

In the case of a New York Socialist newspaper, the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia rules that because one issue of a journal contains matter rendering it unmailable, it is not prima facie evidence that succeeding issues must necessarily also be unmailable for the same reason. In other words, Postmaster-General Burleson in decreeing a blanket order excluding all issues of this journal from the mails exceeded his powers.

Use of the mails is of vital importance to the average citizen, of much greater importance than a generation ago. Should arbitrary authority to abrogate this privilege or right be vested in a single official and that an official intimately associated with politics, whose immunity from political motives cannot be assumed? Should not a special court be created to pass on a question of this weight? Should the power continue to remain in a single head, means of a speedy review of his acts by existing courts should be provided.

SOCRATES AND HIS PUPILS.

SOCRATES: I suppose you young men have read all about the conference at Spa.

Glaucon: The Germans seem to have had a good cry there.

Socrates: Yes, the Germans had a good cry there. They had never cried, you know, and the psychology of the situation could not become what it needed to be until they had done so. You know, arrogance is only conquered in tears. The Germans had been beaten, but it was only at Spa that they finally wept. They did not want to meet the terms of the treaty. The people who had made the French pay in tears in 1870 and had made one Belgian city after another pay in tears during the war had never known until they stood before the Allies at Spa what it was to pay in tears. No more salutary thing has happened since the armistice. The Germans did not want to give the French coal for the coal of which they had dispossessed France by destroying French mines. They did not want to reduce their army to 100,000 men. They did not want to collect and turn over the small arms which the German soldiers had taken home with them. So they came to Spa defiant and blustering, and not until the Allies sent for Gen. Foch did the bullies of another and more brutal day pay in tears.

Thrasymachus: Did they have a good cry?

Socrates: They had one of the best crys in history. It was while shedding hot and salty tears, and filling Spa with their lusty boo-hoos, that they first realized they must reap what they had sown.

Polemarchus: The psychological consideration is very interesting.

Socrates: Quite so. It is, of course, the only interest we have in the conference at Spa.

Glaucon: You think that from this time on things will proceed very nicely?

Socrates: I think they will. The Germans have to pay, as those they have conquered have had to pay. They could realize that only when arrogance itself surrendered; and arrogance, as I have said, is conquered only in tears. The war is over. I have been waiting for those tears. They were the psychological end.

Thrasymachus: Socrates, you are some two-story thinker.

Socrates: Tut-tut, Thrasymachus! Now let us shake dice to see who gets a stick of wood.

MARGARET.

God made her fair,
The glory of His flaming sun is on
Her shining hair;
His skies' deep blue rests in
Her quiet eyes;
As mirrored in some silver pool
A bright star lies.
The blush He gave the rose is
On her cheek;
The sweetness of her lips the
Soft winds seek.
When blowing o'er some scented
Orange grove.
They gather fragrance from the Things they love;
And where she walks amid the
Fields and flowers,
The birds give forth their songs
From leafy bowers.
Each tiny blade of grass lifts
Up its head,
Content to die to feel but once
Her tread;
And I who love her linger
Yet awhile,
Finding myself in Paradise if
She but smile.

Her soul is fair.
Within the chalice of her heart
A lily lies;
And all the beauty which so charms
Our eyes,
Is but the outward semblance of
An inward grace,
Which seeks expression through her
Form and face;
So pure her thought no earthborn
Thing can stay
Within the circle of her mind,
But flies away;
As snow upon some distant
Mountain line,
Fades from the sight before the Clear sunshine.
Priceless her love. Ah, if 'twere
Given to me,
No greater gift, kind heaven,
I'd ask of thee.

Sir: After careful tabulation I submit the following as the official standing in the "Letters-From-the-People" League:

"Pro Bono Publico" tops the list of inkslingers, with Lulu McClure Clarke running a close second. Sidney Averill of Columbia, Ill., broke the deadlock for third place with "Old Subscriber" by getting a poem in "Just a Minute." (It will be recalled that the Illinois gentleman's poetic outburst elicited favorable (?) comment from the conductor of that column.) Owing to lack of interest in the Irish question, the mighty Jeff Mackay has dropped to fifth place; but we expect him to wield a wicked Waterman once more when the English behead Archbishop Mannix. Also rans are "Disgusted Reader," "Ex-Doughboy," "A Citizen," "One Who Knows," "100 Per Cent American" and "Shocked Mother."

Some people get their names in the paper by jumping off the Free Bridge. Others try cheap imitations of Helen Rowland's stuff and send it to "Just a Minute."

Those who write clever sayings for "Just a Minute" will furnish promising material for the "Letters From the People" column in future years. We view their development with great interest.

This clever "Helen Rowland" stuff
Can come from Any fella;
It takes a
Brainy bimbo, tho',
To write a
"Yes, Luella."

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

This column is designed to reproduce without bias the latest comment by the leading publicists, newspapers and periodicals on the questions of the day.

THE DIGNITY OF WORK.

From the London Times.

FROM every quarter the demand comes for a greater volume and higher efficiency of work. Whatever may be his kind of labor the worker is recognized as the high priest of our economic salvation. Everyone recognizes this fact. But all over the world today, so it is reported, men are refusing to put forth the full vigor of their efforts. While the workers demand a higher return for what they do they seem careless to increase their output. Happy, indeed, is the man who has found his work, and does it with his whole heart. In it he reaches his fullest dignity and has the guarantee of an abiding contentment. If it is true that numbers of our artizans are refusing to give their best efforts in work, restricting their output for greater gain, we cannot doubt that here we have one root cause of the present industrial discontent. When work is done with reluctance, in measured miserliness of that which is the source of wealth, there is sourness of spirit and the murmuring of revolution. If we need more production in work to place our social system on more secure foundations, we as truly need it for the moral well-being of the workers themselves. Work is necessary for true fellowship. There are differences of operations in the body politic, but all must work if it is to be sound, healthy and vigorous. Labor is the service each may offer to all, being at once giver and receiver in a reciprocal obligation of true brotherhood. Ruskin insisted that work must be honest, useful and cheerful. It must be all this and more. It must secure the honorable independence of the worker. In what does this consist? It is found in security against degrading poverty, provision for illness and old age, opportunity for leisure and for pleasure, full experience of the grace of family life, with liberty for the fullest exercise of the intellectual, artistic and spiritual powers of our manhood. Work is the appointed means by which these things are gained. That is its highest ministry.

ENGLAND'S LABOR PERIL.

From the New York Call.

LABOR is awakening. Slowly it is beginning to exert that world-shaking power which has always been its possession and which, consciously applied, can claim the whole world for the workers' portion. The action of British labor, reported from London, is a portent. Faced with the possibility of a new "world war," a war drawn up avowedly and undisguisedly on class lines, all factions of the British working class came together and "moderates" and "extremists" united in a single stern, peremptory order to the powers of diplomacy: This thing must stop. Before that order the diplomats of Hythe, secretly spinning their new webs of cannon and battle fleets and "special aid" for war against Soviet Russia, paused, fluttered—and backed down. Coming so swiftly in the wake of the workers' successful boycott of Horthy's Hungary, this action of the British workers leaves no doubt as to how this "new world" that has been going through such tortuous birth-pangs during the last five years is to be operated. It is to be operated by the voice and will of labor, wherever and whenever labor cares to raise that voice. For a few days more there will be rumors and alarms of hostilities against the workers' republic. But there will be no war. Diplomatic Europe knows today what anyone outside of diplomatic or journalistic circles could have told them long ago, that the price of war against Soviet Russia is revolution outside of Soviet Russia.

OUT OF THE HAND OF THE TERRIBLE

by ARTHUR TRAIN

THIRD INSTALLMENT.

IT WAS during this last stage that I made his acquaintance, and became his legal adviser. He had been one of a group of offensively clever, solemn young men who published a dull monthly paper with a patronizing air of infallibility. I have sometimes thought that for all his seeming brilliance Tarnow was very much like the New Internationalist—at bottom ponderously superficial and without a single ray of humor. For humor connotes kindliness, and he, they, and it had none. Certainly his cleverness was not wisdom.

Posing as a detached and dispassionate intellectual, he was, in fact, ravaged by the worm of jealousy, consumed with envy, hatred, malice and uncharitableness (a fire-eating partisan of revolution). Under the gold rims of his cold, polished lenses, beneath his superior aloofness and all his talk about simplicity, frugality, "hunger," his condemnation of everything that was luxurious and effete, he was really a voluptuary. It was the garishness of life that attracted him. He loved everything sumptuous. He craved rich food in order that he could make the gesture of refusal, smart friends that he could condescend to them. But this did not prevent his eventually eating the entire menu or spending every week-end on Long Island. He really had all the love of magnificence of an Oriental. He enjoyed emotional music, liked highly spiced disher and riotous colors, and was a chaser of women.

He believed that he could profit by Trotzky's example and avoid his mistakes. So he had gone deliberately to work to bring about the social cataclysm which has always been the dream of the syndicalist in the expectation that he could, like his old associate, out of the disorder snatch the reins of government. He was adroit, influential, well informed, with a wide acquaintance of all sorts and—he had Lenin and Trotzky behind him.

In payment for the hundred thousand dollars Mme. Palmberg had collected in 1915 they now sent him millions. It was a "glittering" game. And "glitter" was a favorite word of his. Gold torn alike from peasant and from Prince poured secretly into New York to Tarnow's order. But events proved that he was, as I have said, essentially stupid—an egotistical poseur, a victim of the auto-intoxication of vanity.

I doubt if it had not been for his love affair with Margaret Hamilton whether he would ever again have advocated violence or risked his hide by trying to play Robespierre. He would probably have remained content, after his Paris vacation among Prime Ministers and generalissimos, to return to the boudoirs of his Fifth avenue and Long Island admirers, a clever intellectual, competing, cigarette in hand, with Patience Worth as a drawing room attraction.

But at Paris he met Margaret, whose father had gone there to help reorganize the finances of a ruined world. Had he been successful in marrying her he would have disappeared as a revolutionary and very likely turned us as a conservative diplomat at the court of St. James.

There is no denying that he interested her, not so much the man as the agility and versatility of his intelligence. And he was not backward in following it up. Margaret's father had no time to learn what she was doing and she saw Tarnow constantly. Being a straight-ahead sort of girl they were calling each other by their first names in no time. His talk fascinated her. She did not know enough to question his premises and his conclusions seemed unassailable. At this suggestion she read "Fields, Factories and Workshops," "The Communist Manifesto," and waded through a volume of "Das Kapital."

He crossed with the Hamiltons on the same steamer coming home, and met her father for the first time, under circumstances which were bound to have a definite effect upon the prosecution of his suit. Jack Hamilton saw the situation at a glance. He didn't know a thing about the serene, polite, perfectly poised young man with the gold eyeglasses and meticulous adjectives, but he perceived that he was shallow, self-important and slightly cheap. He himself, as everybody knows, was a man of profound knowledge and intellectual power, whose native kindliness and courtesy had been intensified and polished by acquaintanceship with the foremost citizens of England, France and America.

It was the great man meeting the "Smart Alec," and the "Smart Alec" realizing it. In an unguarded moment Tarnow once admitted to me that he hated Hamilton from the first moment he saw him on the deck of the George Washington. He did not tell me why, but I believe that he hated him because he knew that no matter what he did he could never be like him, the reason that every cad hates a gentleman.

At Margaret's request Hamilton invited Tarnow to sit at the same table with them in the dining room. Then the unequal contest began. I can visualize it easily enough, the sound, experienced, practical financier good-naturedly demolishing the solemn arguments of the superficial theorist and showing him up for a sententious mountebank; the real man of the world taking all the gloss off Tarnow's cheap drawing room patter; the great-hearted American forcing faint protestations of loyalty from one for whom loyalty was a meaningless expression.

Before the Washington sighted Sandy Hook Margaret Hamilton was wondering what she had ever seen in either Tarnow or his talk. Tarnow, on the other hand, had no idea of what had been going on. He had capered in his most approved fashion for his future father-in-law and was entirely pleased with himself. His egotism did not admit the possibility that either the banker or his daughter would regard him as an undesirable member of the Hamilton family.

With confidence he proposed to her their last evening on board, and, with the gentlest consideration, was refused. She did not know what Tarnow really was, but she realized that he was something so different from the kind of a man her father was that she did not want to marry him. Tarnow knew it also, but that she should know it was too much for him to bear. That was what turned his soul to gall; that, in the final analysis, was what made him a "Red." Hitherto intellectually a "Red," now he became a "Red" by temperament.

From that day he devoted himself to the task of trying to annihilate a social order in which he could be disregarded. He would bring these proud aristocrats to him crawling on their knees. He would pauperize and, if necessary, destroy them. And he would have Margaret Hamilton for a wife, or, if not, for a mistress. What difference did it make what happened in Russia? He believed himself cleverer than either Trotzky or Lenine. In the present state of things he would—for some subtle reason—always remain an outsider. Well, he proposed to be an insider. Some day Jack Hamilton would come and beg him for the love of God to marry his daughter. When that time came he would consider the matter.

So Tarnow set about making everybody dissatisfied, and, availing himself of the connections he had made when on his tour of investigation for the Government, entered into negotiations with his old associate Trotsky and became the actual representative in America of the forces seeking to induce chaos throughout the world. Only, as I have said, Tarnow's scheme was a very simple one—merely to get people so disgusted that they would welcome any sort of change and so almost automatically accept the panacea of government which he would offer them, with himself at the head of it.

That was why Paul Christopher seemed to be playing so nicely into Tarnow's hands. Nobody knew who he was or from whence he had come, only that he was preaching the gospel of discontent with the most profound effect, due less to his oratorical gifts than his extraordinary personal magnetism and charm. People were pretty sick of the ordinary harangue on social revolution. What they wanted was flour, coal, sugar and shoes, not words, words, words. There was great danger that the very conditions which Tarnow had precipitated would defeat his own propaganda, that the "proletariat" would conclude that they were in a sufficiently bad mess already without making it any worse.

But Paul Christopher's appearance gave a new fillip to it. If he hadn't been a zealot burning with a religious fervor Tarnow would have sent him a check, but under the circumstances he couldn't. The man was doing it for love, accomplishing more by the curious force of his strange personality than all of Tarnow's agitators put together. And all Tarnow had to do was to sit back and let him go on preaching his doctrine of revolt.

At first he had simply talked on street corners or from the pedestal of some statue in Union Square, but before long the interest which he excited grew to such an extent that he was invited to speak from various church pulpits. Soon his vogue became so enormous that he held daily meetings in Madison Square Garden. Moody and Sanky, Dodie, Billy Sunday were nothing to him. There was a personal spiritual appeal about the man like that of John the Baptist. And he proclaimed a similar doctrine. The kingdom of heaven was at hand! The people must repent in order that it might come and in order to be ready for it! Present conditions were intolerable and they must change them.

He offered no solution of the problem. He had no formulae—no new ideas to sell. He pictured no Utopia to ensue upon the adoption of some new political or social rearrangement. His was a voice crying in a wilderness, which had once been the garden of the Lord. God had made the world good, and now it was evil. He contrasted things as they were with what they had been in the past. They were living, he asserted, under a tyranny worse than that of the Pharaohs—trying to make bricks without straw. They must create a new order of things. He did not say what. He was content to preach revolt against life as it was.

But while that was exactly what all the other agitators were doing, Paul Christopher made his hearers realize vividly just how bad everything really was, how far demoralization had gone, and roused them to a frenzy of pity for themselves, wrath and indignation. His name was everywhere. His words were repeated reverently from mouth to mouth. People walked miles on the bare chance of standing outside some building in which he might be speaking, and dozens were daily crushed to death in the press that thronged about him.

By the Lord, it was miserable enough! And daily it grew worse. Had it not been for the mildness of the winter that year and the premature spring, half the population would have frozen to death. As it was they nearly starved, and the unseasonableness of the winter induced a plague of influenza that took the first born of nearly every family. Then came the sensational collapse of the superroads structure of Fifth avenue, carrying down with it 4000 motors and 10,000 human beings, and the great riot as the people tried to extricate their dead. Almost as many lost their lives in the blind effort to rescue others as had perished in the dstruction of the viaduct, which in its fall dragged down with it the two skyscrapers on the corner of Forty-second street.

That was the first time that Paul Christopher's miraculous power was demonstrated. Leaving Madison Square Garden, where he was speaking, he walked quietly to the scene of the disaster and bade the frenzied crowds fall back down the side streets. Gradually he brought order out of chaos. It was like bidding the waves of the sea to be still and having them obey.

But Paul Christopher could not bring manna from heaven or turn stones into bread. The great tunnels beneath the East River and the Hudson, through which for years New York had been fed, had been allowed to go unrepaired, and, one after the other, they cracked and filled with water. The municipal restaurants could no longer furnish even soup to the starving population. Bands of robbers swarmed through the streets looting warehouses for concealed supplies. The lighting system failed for lack of fuel, and darkness added to the horror. Pitched battles went on between the hired mercenaries of the rich and the gangs of freebooters who attacked their mansions, while every man defended himself and his family as best he could from the constant guerilla warfare of bandits and ghouls who worked singly or in pairs. A huge fire broke out among the tenement houses in Central Park and burned down all those west of the reservoir. A fetid stench—one could almost see it—hung over the city.

And yet Tarnow did not make his final move. Sitting in his luxurious apartment in the tower of the Plaza Building, in telephonic communication with his lieutenants in the different parts of the city and in the various Government departments, he told me over his cigar that he was waiting until a voluntary, simultaneous uprising should occur. Then, and not until then, would his searchlights sweep up and down the streets, the cannons boom and his aviators hover overhead scattering a million copies of the Scarlet Eagle announcing that the people had come into their own and that a new government had been established, with George Tarnow as commissar.

"Have patience!" he laughed, leaning across his window sill and gazing down through the soft May dusk upon the weltering city. "Have a little patience, my dear fellow! One must select the precise psychological moment—not an instant before or after! Perhaps it will be tomorrow morning, perhaps tomorrow afternoon. I am ready. But the people—and only the people—must choose the time."

He flecked off his cigar ash and it floated down zigzagging earthwards.

"That is all you care for the people!" I remarked.

And Tarnow laughed.

When I returned home that night, accompanied by my two guards, I found that my sister and her husband had had nothing for supper but a handful of cornmeal and water, which they had boiled in a tin over a lighted newspaper. My brother-in-law had not left the house for five days. I told them that they would not have to wait much longer, that there would be a new government in a day or two. But neither of them seemed at all interested.

"It seems to me that we have had all the revolution we want already," he growled. "Have you got anything to eat with you?"

I offered him a cigar Tarnow had given me and a can of sardines to which I had helped myself as I went out. When they had eaten the last of them my sister said:

"Paul Christopher is to speak in Van Courtlandt Park tomorrow. They have installed acouphones so that everybody can hear him. Will you go with us?"

"Why should I walk five miles to hear a crazy agitator?" I inquired roughly. The idea seemed silly.

"I do not know," she answered in rather a queer way. "But John and I are going. They say he is wonderful. Everybody is going. The whole city is going."

"Nonsense," I retorted. "I don't want to hear him. I've heard enough agitators. I'm sick of all of them."

Want to Be Happy Though Married? Keep Your Eye on the Cupidometer; Don't Open Your (Hubby's / Wife's) Letters

"The Trouble With Marriage Has Been That Women Have Taken It for What It Is, a Whole Time Job, While Men Have Tried to Run It on a Part-Time Basis—and Failed.

By Marguerite Dean.

"IF you want to be happy though married, keep your eye on the Cupidometer!"

That is W. L. George's newest matrimonial epigram—it came, fresh and bright, out of his inexhaustible mind when we discussed love and marriage two hours after he landed for his first visit to America. As, of course, you know, Mr. George is the author of "Blind Alley," "The Second Blooming," and several other clever, sophisticated, superbly well-written novels, romances expressed in terms of modern realism. He is the wittiest of living English story tellers, and he knows more about women than all the rest of them put together.

But I was particularly eager to hear his views on marriage, because in previous expressions of them he suggested irresistibly one of Mother Goose's famous characters. Like the "wondrous wise" man, Mr. George first jumped into a bramble bush of thorny criticisms of the Sacred Institution and scratched out both his eyes with the assertion that he had observed only nine unqualified successes out of 150 marriages. Three years later he "jumped into another bush and scratched them in again" with an equally brilliant essay on "The Gentlest Art," in which he became a champion of married life and upheld it as decidedly preferable to any other.

And in that bush Mr. George now stands lightly poised. "A bad marriage is better than none," he smilingly assured me. "Celibacy for a woman—for a man there is no such thing, whatever he may say—means the repression of her chief instinct, the instinct to do something for somebody. So she goes into any sort of movement or cause or religion that offers itself—and suffers. As for the free unions, of those which I have observed not one has been a success. They suffer the fate of all exceptions."

"Marriages," he pointed out, "do not fail for lack of love so often as for faulty technique. Love and marriage are not the same thing, although they may coincide. The trouble with marriage has been that women have taken it for what it is, a whole time job, while men have tried to run it on a part time basis and failed."

"What," I asked him, "must be added unto love in order to make marriage a success?"

"The first thing," he replied promptly, "is that both husband and wife must remember they are married—that things cannot go on exactly as before; that there is an end to adventure, to complete freedom.

"The second thing is to make your wife your partner. I have talked with many American women, and each of them assured me she knew nothing of her husband's business. She should be given responsibility, should share in his career. To marry a woman and put her on a shelf, handing her food and clothes and a doll to play with, is no way to make her happy.

"Then a husband must remain interesting. Nothing is so fatal to marriage as dullness. In his day there must always be some bit of good news or bad, some humorous incident, something worth telling to her. Let him save it up and disclose it at the proper moment. Let him study her moods. A quarrel usually means that she is tired, or ill, or nervous, or that she wants something. Let him keep his eye on the meter—there's an Americanism for you—or, rather, keep his eye on the Cupidometer!

"And the fourth important thing to remember about marriage is that not only are you one but you are two. You are partners—yet you are also individuals. A wife should have privacy—not merely her own room, but her own time to read, to amuse herself, her own thoughts to think.

"To sum up, marriage is a matter of taking infinite pains. I once put the rules for happy marriage in six maxims," concluded Mr. George. "Let me see if I can remember them—

"Do not open each other's letters. (For one reason, you might not like the contents.) And try not to look liberal if you don't even glance at the address or the postmark.

"Vary your pursuits, your conversation and your clothes. If required, vary your hair.

"If you absolutely must be sincere, let it be in private.

"(Especially for wives.) Find out on the honeymoon whether crying or swearing is the most effective.

"Once a day say to a wife, 'I love you;' to a husband, 'How strong you are!' If the latter remark is ridiculous, say, 'How clever you are!' for everybody believes that.

"Forgive your partner 70 times 7. Then burn the ledger.

"I've been married four years," confessed the novelist, a twinkle in his blue eyes, under their full, drowsy lids. "And I've practiced these rules all that time. They work!"

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Striped Chipmunk Tells About Shadow.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

AFTER a long, long time Striped Chipmunk stopped shaking with fear. When he stopped shaking the little Rabbit stopped shaking. There they had crouched between two stones of the old stone wall and waited and waited for the coming of Shadow the Weasel, but Shadow hadn't come, and now Striped Chipmunk felt sure that he wouldn't come. Very, very carefully Striped Chipmunk lifted his head and peeked out of their hiding place. No one was to be seen. Instantly Striped Chipmunk scrambled out.

"He is gone!" he cried. "He didn't come quite far enough to find us."

"He is gone!" he cried. "He didn't come quite far enough to find us, and now he has gone somewhere else. Come on out."

Peter Rabbit's lost little son climbed out on the big stone beside Striped Chipmunk. "Tell me," he said, "something about Shadow the Weasel. He didn't look at all big to me. In fact, he didn't look much bigger than you. He was longer, that was all. Two of us together ought to be too much for him."

"Dear me! dear me!" exclaimed Striped Chipmunk. "How innocent you are. You have a lot, a tremendous lot to learn. Shadow the Weasel is the most awful fellow in the Great World. I would rather meet Reddy Fox and Granny Fox and Old Man Coyote than Shadow the Weasel any time. They kill only for food; he finds sport in killing. It wouldn't make any difference if he had just had the finest meal in the world he would kill you or me just the same if he got the chance, and do it just for fun. He is all bad. The worst of it is, there is no place in which either of us can hide that he cannot find us. He is so slim that he can follow anywhere that I can go, and I can go in places where you cannot.

"It would be bad enough if he hunted with his eyes alone, and there would be some chance then. All that would be necessary would be to keep out of his sight. But he has a wonderful nose, and nobody knows how to use a nose better than he does. He doesn't depend on his eyes at all. He just uses that nose of his to follow the scent of those he is hunting.

"One day he found my tracks and followed me right straight down into my house under ground. I thought he would get me that time. Yes, sir, I certainly thought he would get me that time, but I fooled him. I guess he is still wondering what became of me."

"However did you do it?" cried the little Rabbit.

"Promise me that you will never, never, never tell," commanded Striped Chipmunk, and the little Rabbit promised.

"I had a little side room. I got into it in time to shut the door by filling it full of sand. He went right past, and to this day he doesn't know why he failed to catch me. Just remember that little trick; perhaps some day it will be of use to you."

A Dinner Frock of Taffeta on New Lines

DANCING in the open air under tall, full-leafed trees that sparkle with tiny lights is quite the favored summer evening pastime at fashionable resorts, and this indulgence has inspired a type of evening frock which is high in the back and supplied with tiny sleeves, usually in one with the bodice. Thus the formal atmosphere of the decollete gown is eliminated, while at the same time an appropriate dressiness is maintained. The design I am offering is typical of this sort of frock, and the chic air of it will appeal to those young matrons of discriminating taste who strive to incorporate the quality of style in all of their gowns. It is needless to remark that with evening gowns the usual attributes are charm, becomingness, daintiness and modishness, with "style" expressed only by the wearer who is lucky enough to be endowed with the ability to "carry" clothes.

This gown has a rolling shawl collar of crisp taffeta, which in front drops loosely over the slim bodice, and blouses over the tiny ribbon belt. The dignified yet youthful charm of it is especially suitable to the young matron. The skirt is full and confined at intervals by cordings, the monotony of which is interrupted by a luscious rose at the lower side-front, under which the narrow ribbon streamers that drop from the belt line are restrained. Taffeta in any desired color may be employed for this frock, which is an excellent model for restaurant and theater wear this winter.

As a Woman Thinketh

By Helen Rowland

From Romanticist to Realist

THE illuminating correspondence between a happily married pair.

Dear Old Darling,

So glad to hear that you are well and happy—but not too happy—without me.

Today, the water was fine, and I went in swimming.

Swam and swam and SWAM—almost out to the raft!

(Don't forget to send me those bathing shoes, you promised to get me.)

A lady paid me the most wonderful compliment this morning

She said, "Oh, look at that YOUNG lady, SWIMMING!"

Wasn't it sweet?

After that, I fairly floated.

By the way, Dear, don't forget to see about the new electric fixtures—and be sure to have the carpenter fix that door to the pantry.

And, oh, yes, don't forget to pay the fire insurance!

The weather has been simply superb, and I expect to go in bathing again tomorrow.

Don't forget to have Delia take the rugs up on the roof and sun them, to keep out the moths.

Don't get overheated, and catch cold. (Your cough medicine is on the top shelf.)

And don't forget to send your dinner clothes to the cleaner's—and your blue suit, and the white flannel trousers.

Don't forget to see Mother, once in a while.

Don't set yourself on fire smoking in bed.

Don't eat too much green corn—you know what the doctor said about it.

Don't forget to feed "Kittums," and water the ferns, and close the windows, when you go out, every morning.

Don't forget to order the coal.

Don't forget

Your loving,
WIFIE.

Dear Girl:

Everything's all right—This is a sizzling hot day—You're lucky to be out of Town—Miss you so much—Have a good time—Don't take any bad money—This is an awful pen—Forgive haste—Bye-Bye—

Your devoted TOM.

And yet,

BEFORE they were married,

He wrote her "perfect classics," and quoted reams of Browning.

And SHE wrote him "Prose Poems,"

That would have made Amy Lowell pink with envy!

Ah me!

From Romanticist to Realist,
From Idealist to Materialist,
Is but a step—

The little step from the church door to the altar!

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TAMPERING WITH THE RECORDS.

It was a sad-eyed shipping clerk,
No references giving,
Who asked us for a job of work
With which to earn a living.
And when we cried: "There's no excuse
For any idle man, sir,"
He let his lachrymals run loose
And made the following answer:

"For seven years or thereabout
I handled all the traffic
Connected with the shipping out
Of records phonographic,
And then, like Little Buttercup,
By some ill star inspired,
One night I mixed a shipment up
And that's what got me fired.

"Next day a letter, I was told,
Came in from Locust Valley,
Where they were just about to hold
A Democratic rally.
It read: 'Your humor gets our goats,
You may believe you're clever,
But jazz-tunes don't get any votes;
We're off of you forever.'

"Then Mrs. Jones of Truror wrote
The firm a little missive
Whose wording as perhaps you'll note,
Was more or less derisive:
'Do you believe, by any chance,
The girls along these beaches
Derive much pleasure when they dance
To Mr. Harding's speeches?'"

HONORABLE EMULATION.

Babe Ruth's confession that he is a graduate of a reform school is going to increase vastly next year's registration at those institutions.

The Rattler and the Remedy.

"What's the idea of collecting all these garter snakes?"

"I want to make it pleasant for the summer boarders," answered Farmer Corntossel. "Josh and I are going to tie buttons on their tails and turn 'em loose on the lawn. A bite from one of 'em won't be at all dangerous, but it ought to bring across a doctor's perscription for the regulation cure, every time."—Washington Star.

A Sign of Maturity.

Gladys, aged 9, was inordinately proud of her baby brother, Tom, who was almost 3 years old. Mr. Wentwell, who lived next door to Gladys, was a traveling salesman and always made it a point to inquire of Gladys about Tom each time he came home. On one occasion he put the customary question: "And how is little brother coming along?" to be met with the surprising answer from Gladys, "Oh, Tom's almost grown up now; he talks in his sleep!"—New York Evening Post.

Playing Up.

"Hiram," said the farmer's wife, "what makes you say 'By gosh' so much and go round with a straw in your mouth?"

"I'm getting ready for them summer boarders that's comin' next week. If some of us don't talk an' act that way, they'll think we ain't country folks at all."—Boston Transcript.

"I'm going to get you another chair for the kitchen, Nora."

"Sure, I don't need it, ma'am."

"But you have only one."

"One's enough, ma'am."

"But you have company some evenings, don't you, Norah?"

"Only gentlemen, ma'am."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
